Committee to Investigate Air Academy

GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES is shown presenting the signed 1965 "Heart Month" proclamation to M. Graham Clark, LL.D. (President of the School of the Ozarks), State Heart Fund Chairman for the Missouri Heart Association and board member of the American Heart Association and the Missouri Heart Association.

The proclamation officially designates February as "Heart Fund" month in Missouri . . . encouraging support by all Missourians in the battle against the No. 1 killer and most serious health problem of the 20th century.

The high point of the month's campaign is the "Heart Sunday" door-to-door collection on February 21.

Governor Hearnes stated that his designation of February as "Heart Month" represents his first signed proclamation.

Thus Far 65 Have Resigned

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — A five-man committee picked by Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert will review all policies of the Air Force Academy in the wake of a classroom cheating scandal that caused 65 cadet resignations.

More resignations are expected as investigators continue questioning cadets — perhaps as many as 700. Under the academy's honor code any cadet who knew about the cheating and did not report it is subject to dismissal.

Zuckert announced in Washington Thursday he had appointed Gen. Thomas D. White, former Air Force chief of staff, to head the committee and "review fundamental programs of the Air Force Academy."

Serving with him are Dean Hardy Dillard, law professor at the University of Virginia; Dr. Robert L. Stearns, former president of the University of Colorado; Charles B. Thornton, president of Litton Industries, and Lt. Gen. Joseph J. Nazzaro, vice commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command.

Zuckert said the committee will seek the basic causes for the honor code violations.

Academy sources said resignations may total 300 before the investigation ends, probably around Feb. 10. The student enrollment was 2,567 on Jan. 15, just before the first announcement of the investigation. Zuckert said last week more than 100 cadets, including 30 varsity football players, were implicated.

The investigation has shown that a cadet stole a key to a locker containing examination questions and then enlisted the help of 10 or 12 other cadets to sell them. Academy officers said most of those quitting have resigned for failure to report their knowledge of the affair.

The honor code requires the enrolling cadet to pledge not to "lie, steal or cheat, and must not tolerate anyone who does."

Veteran Mail Carrier Ends Long Service

LILBOURN-- For 40 years Charles Shelby carried the mail on Lilbourn Route 1 so, Thursday night, some 150 of his route patrons and local residents gathered at the high school cafeteria for a surprise party to the retiring veteran mailman.

Before taking the job as a rural mail carrier, Mr. Shelby taught school in New Madrid county, for six years.

Mr. Shelby was in the first class to graduate from the Lilbourn high school; has been president of the Kiwanis Club and, also, president of the now non-existent Lions Club; an active member of the Methodist Church; he is also an honorary fireman and active in Boy Scout work.

In reminiscing he recalled that when he started to carry the mail he got $88 a month; he has worn out 15 new cars and seven used cars, and one winter, made part of his mail route by motor boat.

The biggest change he has observed on his route, he remarked, is the smaller amount of money orders written by the carrier. At one time money orders averaged from 70 to 80 a day but of recent years, only two or three. People, he said, just aren't buying so much from catalogs as they used to.

In his earlier days as a mail carrier he doubled as a grocery delivery man; brought medicine and performed many other chores for the folks along his route.

An ardent fisherman, he has a cabin on Kentucky Lake and plans to do a lot of fishing in his free time.

As a token of appreciation, his friends presented him with a going-away gift-you guessed it -- a complete fishing tackle outfit.

Prompt Action Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opens debate today on the $1.09-billion Appalachia aid bill and hopes to take a final vote on it Monday.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield had to abandon plans for action on the measure Thursday after the Senate had taken hours longer than expected to complete work on a water pollution control measure.

The two chief sponsors of the Appalachia bill, Sens. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., and John S. Cooper, R-Ky., planned to make their speeches on it today.

They said action might come today on some amendments but that key votes would be Monday.

An alternative bill introduced Thursday by Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Public Works Committee, would authorize the President to set up regional commissions to work up development programs for other areas similar to that contained in the Appalachia bill.

Randolph, No. 2 Democrat on the Public Works Committee, said assurances would be given that the committee would go to work promptly on this bill. He said that he believed, with these pledges, amendments seeking to add aid for the Upper Great Lakes region, for the Ozarks and for some other regions would not be attached to the Appalachia bill.

The Appalachia legislation would provide federal funds to build highways and inaugurate a variety of other projects for areas of an 11-state region which has been economically depressed for many years.

All of West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Virginia would be covered by the aid program.

The water-pollution bill, first major administration-endorsed measure to clear the Senate this year, was passed Thursday by a 68-8 vote and sent to the House after six hours of Debate.

It would authorize larger federal grants to help cities build sewage-treatment plants, establish an $80-million research program on better methods of handling sewage, and beef up government procedures for enforcing antipollution measures.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fast congressional action appears certain on a constitutional amendment urged by President Johnson to deal with the problems of presidential disability and vice-presidential vacancies.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee had scheduled a hearing on it for today even before Johnson's special message was sent to the Capitol late Thursday. And the House Judiciary Committee has arranged for hearings starting Feb. 9.

The proposed amendment was introduced in the Senate early this month by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., with 75 other senators as cosigners. And in the House it is being sponsored by the chairman and top GOP member of the Judiciary Committee.

One part provides that if a vacancy occurs in the office of vice president it shall be filled by presidential appointment subject to the approval of a majority in both the Senate and the House.

The other part of the proposed amendment establishes procedures under which the vice president would take over as acting president in case the president is unable to discharge the duties of his office.

The Senate approved the amendment by a 65-0 vote last Sept. 29, but no action was taken by the House before Congress adjourned.

Johnson told Congress is was astonishing that since the adoption of the Constitution in 1789 "we have neither perfected the provisions for orderly continuity in the executive direction of our system nor, as yet, paid the price our continuing inaction so clearly invites and so recklessly risks."

The President also called for another constitutional amendment to wipe out what he termed the ever present possibility that presidential electors "may substitute their own will for the will of the people."

In presidential elections Americans cast their votes for electors who are free legally to vote for someone other than the

District Engineer Points Out Economic Value to the Area of Highway System

At a meeting of the membership of the Chamber of Commerce at the Mid-Towner Thursday noon, Highway Engineer W. D. Carney was the principal speaker.

He pointed out the strategic location of Sikeston with the state highway system, the impact of highways leading through or near the city; the fact that it is almost centrally located in District 10 in its 12-county area.

Other points of interest in his address to members of the chamber, were the amount of money spent in this area by the division headquarters, the fact that the city of Sikeston itself receives 3,100 square feet of space on signs in the area.

As to the location of Sikeston in the State Highway System, Mr. Carney pointed out, "In my opinion, Sikeston has a very strategic location, because within the city limits or adjacent thereto are located U. S. routes 60, 61 and 62; Interstate Routes 55 and 57, and State Route 114. It must be added that all these are high volume highways with an unlimited potential of transportation, and the future of this city should never be less than what the people of this city and you 'the Chamber of Commerce' desire. With this in mind I am sure that progress will be continuous in the years ahead."

"Primarily, the State Highway Department is responsible for the design, construction and maintenance of the state highway system for the benefit of the highway users. Most generally we are thought of in this manner as providing highway-user service, but today the added economic effect is created while this service is being provided.

"We in the department believe we are an economic asset to this city, and the whole area of District 10. This economic effect can be described in several ways: During the calendar year 1964, District 10 has received contracts in the amount of $19,-100,630. Of this total contractors have been paid approximately $12,200,000. Of this volume of work, a considerable amount of money was spent by them in the area where the work was performed. Of the total amount paid about 25 per cent was in labor, or about $3,000,-000.

"The area received other assets such as fuel and repair parts by the contractors and materials used in the construction. There are 608 employees in District 10, who receive $2,651,000 in salaries, that go into the area economy.

"Our total maintenance cost for highways in 1964 was $2,-650,000, purchased for right-of-way alone. The cost of signs, signals, lighting and pavement marking last year was $341,-550, which included salaries, materials and equipment rental. In our maintenance work our forces used 5,102,000 gallons of oil and 285,000 cubic yards materials. The amount of material produced in District 10 amounted to 1,201,000 tons, or equivalent to a railroad train 170 miles in length. The cement used was 469,000 barrels, which would amount to a string of railroad cars 13 miles long. To sum up this economic impact, would equal $19,857,000 in the 12-county area.

"The economic benefit to Sikeston is two-fold. The construction that has been in progress, some which is virtually complete, has had a tremendous effect on the present. Second, the location of District headquarters has had its effect in the past and present, and will continue to do so in the future.

"Let us consider the construction work in progress. The contract amount of work let last year totalled more than $11 million, with practically the entire amount being contracted on Interstate Route 55. Of this amount Sikeston has received a good portion in payrolls, materials and other products required for construction.

"As of Dec. 31, 1964, there were 185 employees of the Department, who are located in this area, with a monthly income of $73,269, or an annual payroll of $88,000.

"Our Maintenance and Traffic divisions operate a large portion of their crews from this area, and a considerable amount of material is purchased from local firms. A large portion of our vehicles and equipment is stationed in this vicinity.

"In 1964 our Equipment Division purchased repair parts amounting to $46,123 from firms in Sikeston. Fuel for vehicles and equipment is let to local supplies to furnish our needs. Fuel purchased in Sikeston last year was 106,000 gal. gasoline, 5,000 gal. diesel fuel, 2,500 gal. kerosene and 7,400 quarts oil. I am pointing these figures to show you the impact the Division has on the economy here.

"Even though the construction of the Interstate Routes is nearly completed in this vicinity, this work is continuing on the system. Just recently we were able to open 14 miles of Interstate Route 55 from Route 60 and Interstate Route 57 north to Route 77 east of Benton. If work progresses as planned by the contractors, we expect to open 31 miles more on Interstate Route 55 in 1965. This will include the portion from Route 77 north to Scott City, and from Interstate Route 57 and Route 60 south to New Madrid.

"It is anticipated that during 1965 we will let construction contracts amounting to $14,-600,000 in this District, and would include 17.5 miles of work on Interstate 55 from New Madrid to Portageville and Hayti. Along with the Interstate construction, Sikeston has a never-ending benefit due to its location near Interstates 55 and 57. I am sure you are aware of the power of advertising, and many of you have noticed the large green colored signs. The name SIKESTON appears on many of these signs and when you figure space, it amounts to more than 3,100 square feet of advertising. As the construction of the Interstate system progresses and more routes opened to traffic, this city will be called to the attention of motorists by these signs.

"To summarize the status of the Interstate System in District 10, I will call to your attention that Interstate 55, which begins at the Perry county line and continues south to the

Geologist to Speak At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- The Stoddard County Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors announced they will try to have Dale L. Fuller, senior geologist, Missouri Geological Survey and Water Resources as the speaker for the annual meeting to be held in Bloomfield Feb. 15.

Dirl Bagby, chairman of the Board, said, "Since all of us in Stoddard County are interested in water we thought Mr. Fuller would be the logical man to get for our program."

According to Bagby, 104 or more irrigation wells were put down in the county in 1964. Other people as well as farmers have questions about water. Is the supply adequate? Will it remain adequate? Are the losses great? Fuller will answer such questions and have information on geological formations and history of Southeast Missouri.

Hope to End Dock Strike This Week

NEW YORK (AP) -- Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says he expects the Maine-to-Texas dock strike to be settled in time for the 60,000 longshoremen to be back on the job by the first of next week.

He declines to reveal -- "at this time" -- the basis of his optimism about ending the 19-day-old tieup.

Wirtz, who made the statement at a news conference Thursday night, was asked about presidential intervention. He said that he could not speak for President Johnson, but added that he expected no compulsory arbitration move or federal dock seizure.

Some sources report Johnson is seeking to end the strike.

Wirtz said an appeal to the President by the maritime industry employers in the Port of New York "merits consideration."

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Marvin Watson, a Texas friend of President Johnson, will join the White House staff as a special assistant.

Long Distance Calls will be Cheaper Soon

NEW YORK (AP) -- Long distance telephone calls on evenings and weekends will be cheaper starting Monday.

Under a Federal Communications Commission order issued Nov. 25, the $1 maximum station - to - station long distance rate inaugurated in 1963 will be extended.

The charge applies to the first three minutes.

The reduced rates will be effective for six week days at 8 p.m. at the originating point, rather than the present 9 p.m. They will apply all day Sunday.

Reduced rates higher than the after-8 tariffs will apply to Saturday calls and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays.

Want Ideas on How to Make Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON AP -- A somewhat nonplussed Congress waited today for ideas on how it could demonstrate that it would cut taxes quickly to head off any threatened recession.

President Johnson asked the legislators in his economic report Thursday to make such a showing as a contribution to confidence -- while at the same time he said all signs pointed to a fifth prosperous year ahead.

Another presidential request, to free more gold for defense of the dollar in international markets, will get earlier action.

Both House and Senate banking committees set early hearings on legislation to remove the requirement that gold be held to back up 25 per cent of the bank deposits in the Federal Reserve System. House hearings will begin Monday, Senate hearings Tuesday.

U.S. Delegates Pay Tribute To Churchill

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. delegation to Sir Winston Churchill's funeral paid him homage today at Westminster Hall.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk led the Americans. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was expected to visit the bier late in the afternoon.

The American delegation stood in silence for five minutes before the flag-draped coffin.

In addition to Rusk, the American mourners included: W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador in London and Moscow and a friend of Churchill's; Chief Justice Earl Warren who some reporters mistook for Eisenhower, and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

An official at the U.S. Embassy said Eisenhower did not go to Westminster Hall with the American delegation because he is a private guest of the Churchill family.

At the other end of London, the Duke of Norfolk directed a final rehearsal at St. Paul's Cathedral for Sir Winston's funeral Saturday.

The Duke, Britain's Earl Marshal in charge of arrangements for the state funeral, said: "I think it has gone well."

The line of mourners moved silently through Westminster Hall. Many paused for a few moments beside the catafalque.

Early in the day the number of mourners reached 200,000.

LBJ Taking it Easy But Also Keeping Busy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson still is battling remnants of a cold while getting ready to swing back into full stride of official duties.

The President has been taking it fairly easy — easy for him, that is — mixing rest with work.

He still has a bit of cough but no temperature, aides said, and until Thursday afternoon was reported "taking life very easy."

He took it easy Thursday by doing such things as sending a message to Congress urging it to get busy and do something about (1) the problems of possible presidential disability, (2) filling the vacancy when there is no vice president and (3) changing the electoral system to abolish the electoral college but not electoral votes in the states and provide for the situation that could arise if the president-elect, the vice president-elect, or both, died before taking office.

In addition he: Sent his annual economic report to Capitol Hill.

Nominated acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to be attorney general and Ramsey Clark to be deputy attorney general.

Finally persuaded W. Marvin Watson, Texas state Democratic chairman and steel company official, to take a White House job as a $28,500 a year special assistant to the President.

Filled some diplomatic posts by appointing, among others, Angier Biddle Duke, the State Department's former protocol chief, to be ambassador to Spain.

Let it be known that seven or eight more similar appointments will be coming along in the next week or two.

For today, there were no appointments on the Johnson schedule. But that didn't mean no work — there were no appointments on Thursday's schedule, either.

DRINKING AGE DILEMMA

GOV. RICHARD J. HUGHES of New Jersey is trying to arrange a conference with the governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont to get New York's liquor law changed. In New York and only one other state -- Louisiana -- are youngsters allowed to buy liquor or be served at taverns at the age of 18. For a number of years law authorities in New York's five perimetric states and New Hampshire have been concerned over the increasing number of teenagers who cross over into the Empire State to drink.

More than morals is involved. The youngsters -- often plastered -- drive back to their home states not only to their own peril but also to that of sober and older motorists.

Gov. Hughes and officials in the other peripheral states -- all of which require that their young wait until age 21 before they tackle hard liquor -- have been exerting pressure on New York to jack up its drinking age. Hughes now is seeking the aid of civic, fraternal, and religious groups. The N. Y. Times comments: "His crusade is more in the interest of this state than it is of his own. The age limit should be raised from 18 to 21 -- the reform most needed and wholly ignored at last year's special legislative session on liquor law revisions."

THE TROUBLES in Darien, Conn. this summer and autumn have reminded people generally that there are two sides to the teen-age drinking dilemma. Permissive parents ask with a good deal of realism whether you would deprive scores of thousands of servicemen, half of all college students -- and all debutantes -- of a drink just because they are under 21.

Now comes some professional support for this argument. Three sociologists at Washington University in St. Louis report in the current issue of Crime and Delinquency that teen-agers generally find it incongruous that they are prohibited from buying alcohol at ages when they can drive, marry without consent of their parents, face adult penalties for crimes, and enlist in the military. Vast numbers of minors drink not especially for kicks, according to the report, but because they associate drinking with these adult roles. Moreover, sumptuary laws aimed at minors often lack parental support.

The N. Y. Herald Tribune observed during the Darien controversy that residents of Connecticut probably would continue to ignore the liquor law just as they do that state's birth control law. "And," the editorial went on, "with their pre-dinner cocktails, Connecticut hosts can serve up a fresh lesson in how to live happily though hypocritically."

OPPONENTS of permissiveness ask if young people are allowed to experiment with drinking at home, why not sex -- or narcotic drugs? Both questions of course are emotionally freighted. In these days of early marriage a good many fathers cannot legally buy a drink. And it is to be assumed that most young people without strong moral or religious scruples against the use of alcohol will eventually take a drink, but the assumption that the same young people will turn to dope is patently false.

The dilemma really is ageless: How much should behavior be controlled by law and how much by conscience or good judgment? Short of absolute prohibition it becomes a question of difficult definitions and standards. Realism constantly argues with caution, with wisdom always in the balance.

THE MEDICAL CARE DOLLAR

A short time ago the American Medical Association released the results of a three and a half year study of the cost of medical care. This is a monumental and authoritative work running 513 pages and touching on every relevant facet of the matter. It is true that medical care costs more than it did 25 years ago, as does almost everything else. It is also true that medical care prices have increased slightly more than the general price level -- though, it is interesting to note, physician fees have increased somewhat less. Beyond the statistics, however, is a much more important question: Is medical care worth what it costs?

The chairman of the 13-man AMA commission which made the study says this: "People want, or need, and are receiving more medical attention, an increasing amount of which is financed by private health insurance and prepayment plans. As a result of improved medical care, and improved standards of living, the death rate has declined, life expectancy for the population as a whole has approached the biblical 'three-score years and ten,' hospital stay has been shortened, and certain diseases virtually eliminated."

Another point must be stressed -- that a true price change occurs only if the unit priced is of the same quality and quantity. The slight increase in overall medical care costs has been accompanied by greatly improved medical care standards and that is something that a price index cannot accurately reflect.

It is also believed that the study will serve as a springboard for recommendations to encourage the wisest use of the health care dollar. The undeviating purpose is to make that dollar bring peak return in longevity and in the physical and mental well-being of us all.

HATBOX ON WHEELS ROAMS MD. HALLS

Visitors at Johns Hopkins University's applied - physics laboratory in Baltimore had better look lively, the Catholic Digest warns. A robot roams the halls there.

The robot, which weighs 100 lbs., looks like a huge hatbox on wheels, and it has a computer brain.

When its 12 silver cadmium batteries start to run down, it feels its way along a corridor until it finds an electrical outlet. Microswitch fingers on the ends of its arms can sense the contours of a regular electric socket.

When contact is made, the robot inserts two prongs into the outlet and recharges the barreries. Then it pulls out the prongs and moves on.

The machine steers itself with its arm and its microswitches built into a wrap-around bumper. It feels it way along corridors cluttered with soft-drink machines, stair wells, office doors, and people.

"Begorra," said the old man, blinking his eyes, "I should have brought the old lady with me."

Although the controversy over California's capital punishment laws remains, San Franciscoans have quietly paired psychology and science in a manner to make penologists wonder. "Why didn't I think of that before?"

The innovation: glass block. Specifically, prismatic glass block used in place of windows and bara light fixtures in the Youth Guidance Center, a custodial building for holding boys two to four weeks before final disposition.

Among the results: vandalism and attempted suicide or escape thwarted; less maintenance; softer light; and the beneficial psychological effect of no visible bars. The glass block panels meet the California State code for maximum security retention rooms.

FOREIGN AID, AGAIN

If yours is the average American family, foreign aid has cost you more than $1,500 since it began. Our nation has yielded more than $500 per capita in taxes to improve defense, further industrial development or alleviate poverty in scores of other countries since such programs first began.

Everyone has a stake in such programs, and a large one. And everyone should be cheered with recent developments in the foreign aid pictures.

The President has asked less than any President has in years to carry on the program. He asked more than Congress appropriated last time, of course. But the temper of Congress gives cause for hope that the President's figure will be proportionately reduced and finally signal a decline in this burden.

That foreign aid can work has been demonstrated by the Marshall plan in Europe, long since ended. Now it is reported that the Republic of China, long a recipient of our aid, is strong enough to go it alone.

These silver linings can become even brighter if Congress this year will intensify its study of the possible reductions. Some in Congress are prepared to challenge our aid to Communist countries, especially since even the ones supposedly most friendly to the West still show a disturbing tendency to arrest our citizens, and pitch bricks through our embassy windows in officially - sanctioned and well-ordered riots.

Others in Congress (usually another group) are reluctant to vote more money for right-wing dictatorships scattered thinly around the world.

Still others (and some of those already mentioned) are loath to send money to nations which expropriate property of U. S. citizens and violate international rights.

And there's even a chance that support can be found for reducing the aid to friendly, well - behaved nations to amounts and kinds that will really further their interests while confining all our aid to amounts and kinds that will serve our own national purposes.

SOCIALIST DISASTER IN BRITAIN

When fundamentals are frail fate may be fickle.

If a nation and its people do not value freedom highly enough, freedom will be lost. If the peril of socialism is not fully understood, disaster may be in the making.

On October 15, 1964, Britain was prosperous and happy, with only the weak spots of socialism and the Profumo scandal. But warnings of what would happen if socialism took over went unheeded.

The Conservative Party with its poor title, lost the election and control of Parliament by a scant margin. Instead of being disposed to caution by their narrow Parliamentary majority and the fact they had only a plurality of the total vote, the winning Party leaders plunged headlong toward outright socialism.

Taxes were increased, trade cut off, confidence in the economy collapsed and the monetary system staggered. Stability of the pound sterling was threatened as never before since the grim aftermath of World War II.

Nations, including the United States which could ill afford the sacrifice, poured three billion dollars into a fund to stabilize the pound. But the real danger to the pound was not lack of financial backing, but a well-justified fear of socialism.

No one considered the advisability of halting the ravages of socialism. So now half of the three billion is gone. Optimists who have said "There will always be an England", now helplessly wonder.

Tinkering with the currency has failed to help England, just as it has failed everywhere.

No doubt but what Mr. Churchill was one of the greatest men England ever produced, evidently his prayers and the prayers of the people of the nation were heard and answered in the face of what appeared to be unmerciful slaughter more horrible than the gas chambers in the threatened invasion of Hitler's hordes. Only the Lord could have sent a sudden storm with 125 mile per hour winds that destroyed Hitler's boats assembled ready to transport his troops across the Channel. The press account of this miracle at the time stated that never before in history had such a storm hit that section.

The Bible teaches that God deals with a nations rulers and the people suffer or prosper accordingly.

NEW YORK (AP)--All school dropouts have the same problem--finding a job suited to their ability.

Rex Harrison is one dropout who seems to have solved the problem satisfactorily. Forty years after he quit the halls of learning at 16 to join a Liverpool repertory company, his services in a play or film now command a small fortune--or a large one.

At 56, happily married to British actress Rachel Roberts and practically certain of an Academy Award nomination for his performance in "My Fair Lady," Rex is riding on cloud No. 9.

"I enjoy life--get a great kick out of it," he remarked.

It is a pleasure to see an Englishman enjoy himself, particularly in this generation. And when Harrison enjoys himself, he lets go all the way. He chuckles, removes his horn-rimmed glasses, then throws his head back and roars in laughter like a schoolboy.

The lanky actor has become almost a living synonym for urbane charm and debonair sophistication.

This amuses him, for he is more sure of what sophistication isn't than what it is.

"I've found the real sophisticates generally live in the most simple manner. They find that life more satisfactory," he said.

"Sophistication is a misnomer. It sounds like you are always drinking champagne poured by servants. I'm not that way at all. I usually draw my own cork.

"Rachel and I live quite simply in our villa at Portfino on the Italian Riviera. We have a caretaker and a gardener, but my wife does a lot of the cooking.

"I never put on a tie there. There's no reason to. Nobody else does. It's very, very comfortable and completely casual. I haven't really liked night clubs for years and years. Actually I couldn't say whether I'm sophisticated or not."

"My philosophy? It's quite simple: Live for the moment--tomorrow is for dying."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — No two men were more at odds during the war than Charles De Gaulle and Winston Churchill. De Gaulle had been brought to England by Churchill during the last hours before the Nazis closed in on France, and there were times when the stubborn Englishman wished that he had left the stubborn Frenchman sitting on the pier in Bordeaux.

Churchill not only agreed with Secretary of State Cordell Hull when he referred to De Gaulle's "so-called" Free French, but was indignant with De Gaulle when, at Casablanca, Roosevelt and Churchill tried to persuade De Gaulle to have his photo taken with Gen. Henri Giraud, of the French in North Africa. Despite pressure from both FDR and Churchill, De Gaulle refused.

It was after this that Churchill, referring to the symbol of the Free French, remarked, "The Cross of Lorraine is the hardest cross I have to bear."

Despite this background of antagonism, President De Gaulle issued one of the most moving tributes to the man who once ridiculed him — Winston Churchill.

--LBJ AND DE GAULLE--

In Washington during recent months, relations have been improving between the United States and De Gaulle. This results, in part, from the patient policy of President Johnson.

"Some of the state Department boys want me to issue statements answering President De Gaulle," Johnson told a friend the other day. "But I just lean back from the plate and let those fast balls go by."

Diplomatic insiders say this better atmosphere between Washington and Paris should make possible a conference between De Gaulle and Johnson. The President of the United States has a lot of admiration for the president of France, recognizes that he has done great things for his country.

So LBJ, a patient and persuasive negotiator, would like to sit down with President De Gaulle on some early occasion and see if they can't revive the 180 years of friendship between the United States and France.

--HHH'S OFFICE--

Vice President Humphrey has been given a joshing runaround by his old Senate colleagues over the fact that he can't find a choice working office on Capitol Hill. However, he has a real working office about 100 feet from LBJ's in the executive office building and is proud of it.

His pride results from the fact that the office was once occupied by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt in World War I. And Hubert has dug up one of the last portraits painted of Roosevelt in 1945, shortly before FDR died, to hang on his wall.

"Muriel helped me fix the place up," he says with pride. "She picked these curtains and had 'em put some covers over those old-fashioned radiators. I picked out this beige carpet — a color that won't show the tracks."

The Vice President is being kept busy trucking back and forth between the Senate and the White House, and he's actually getting over his old habit of being late.

Note — The knobs on Humphrey's door are worth $250 each. They carry the Navy seal on one side of the door, the Army seal on the other, emblems of the fact that the Executive Office used to house the State, War, and Navy departments — all under the same roof. Today the Defense Department occupies the Pentagon, one of the largest office buildings in the world, while the State Department has moved into a huge new building covering two blocks.

--REV. KING'S ASSAILANT--

Jimmy George Robinson, the man who poked Rev. Martin Luther King the other day at Selma, Ala., is not a Birmingham boy as he told the newspapers, but a Texan who has been operating a bicycle shop on Route 67 outside Garland, Tex., where he has gained local notoriety as a right-wing rabble rouser.

A year ago, he was arrested for planting a flaming cross on the lawn of Jack Oran of Richardson, Tex., who had spoken to Kiwanis and Rotary groups on the similarities between American right-wingers and the German Nazis.

Robinson was fined $25 for violating a fire ordinance.

--"CLASSIFIED" MAPS--

Movie maker Goerge Seaton needed a 1944 battle map of France for his World War II spy thriller, "36 Hours," but both the French embassy and the Pentagon solemnly insisted that the old maps were "classified."

Seaton turned for help to Sen. Tom Kuchel, R—Calif., who also got nowhere until he threatened to call the Russian embassy for the maps. Then the Pentagon reluctantly produced them.

--GOP BATTLE SCARS--

The wheeling and dealing prior to the election of Reps. Gerald Ford (Mich.) as floor leader and Les Arends (Ill.) as whip, has left scars on the Republican party.

One of the rewards which both Ford and Arends dangled before newly elected GOP House members was a place on top-ranking committees, and those who were passed over are now blazing mad.

Arends was talking about these injured feelings to a man who voted against him, Rep. Frank Horton, R—N.Y. Turning his back on Horton, Arends said:

"Do you see any knives sticking out of me?"

"No," replied Horton, who wanted a place on the Interstate Commerce Committee and didn't get it. "However, there are a few sticking out of me."

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

At the airport they found the family plane, The Wayfarer, an F-27. On the flight to Albany they were accompanied by Mr. Rockefeller's modest, soft-selling labor adviser, Victor Borella, executive vice president of Rockefeller Center.

On the return trip the Governor joined the travelers. About 6 p.m., somewhere high in the sky hurtling towards New York City, Mr. Van Arsdale after discussing the waywardness and muck of politics suddenly asked Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller:

"Why, with all your wealth, don't you give all this up and take it easy?

"Why do you submit yourself to this type of thing? Why fight —fight the legislators, the politicians and all the pressure groups?"

The Governor replied quickly:

"Because I love it, I love this business of politics, this way of life."

Somewhere in the conversations of the day he had become philosophical about political fortunes.

"You just can't tell about these things. Dick Nixon came East and I went West, and it did not do either of us any good."

But there was no doubt among his listeners that he was preparing eventually to go west again. Gov. Rockefeller, though surrounded by his cabinet at the luncheon, had done most of the talking.

He spoke of the future — as far off as 1972. He outlined plans which would keep him absorbed for years. To such labor leaders as Van Arsdale, Coughlin and O'Rourke he seemed to be out "Democratic-ing the Democrats."

He spoke of spending over a billion dollars to fight air pollution; of disbursing well over a billion and seven hundred million dollars on heavy construction; of heavy outlays for education and at least half a billion for actual building of schools.

The Governor estimated that this would create over 120,000 jobs in the next five years. This pleased the labor leaders. Johnny O'Rourke has 165,000 teamsters to worry about.

Rockefeller Launches Long-Range Drive for GOP Presidential Nomination.

NEW YORK — Some political observers will mark a spaghetti and meatballs luncheon in the state capital's executive mansion on Monday, Jan. 25, as the moment and the day Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller made his first move in the drive for re-election in 1966 and for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968.

That afternoon Mr. Rockefeller broke bread with some of his toughest political opponents — several labor leaders who had thrown everything their movements had into the fight to defeat him and his party.

But Monday they had been his guests in grand style fit only for men being wooed because of their influence, prestige and the strength of their followers in the state's precincts.

In the luncheon group were the tireless Harry Van Arsdale, leader of the million-member New York City Central Labor Council; Howard Coughlin, swiftly becoming a national symbol of white collar unionism, who heads the Office Employes International union and regional Teamsters national vice president Johnny O'Rourke, one of Rockefeller's most consistent and hard-hitting critics.

The previous Friday they, along with four or five others, had received the following telegram:

"Would it be possible for you to join me at a luncheon at the Executive Mansion in Albany on Monday, Jan. 25, at 12 noon to review New York State legislative and fiscal matters. To facilitate your travel I will have a plane at Butler Marine Terminal at 11 a.m. Monday to take you to Albany and to return you to New York after luncheon. My office will be in touch with you by phone today. With best wishes, Nelson A. Rockefeller."

Howard Coughlin, easily one of the country's leading authorities on office automation is concerned with maintaining white collar employment. And Van Arsdale still plans to uncork a drive for a four-hour day to take up the slack in construction jobs.

It would have been easy for Nelson Rockefeller to bypass the state's labor chiefs. They had fought him. They hardly expected to be consulted. They did not expect to be ferried by private plane.

They went up as Democrats. They did not return as Republicans. But the Governor had eased a political strain. This may be a minor point for the moment. However, points add up in the political Olympics in which the grand prize is the White House.

Extension Club Of Vanduser Has Meeting

The Vanduser Extension Club met Thursday night, January 21 in the city hall with 14 members and one visitor, Mrs. J. L. Burton present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Woodrow Beavers. Roll call was answered with, "My Favorite Color".

The ladies decided to have a bake sale on Saturday January 30, as a money-making project. Dues were paid, year books were filled out, and project leaders were appointed.

The Vanduser club was organized in April of last year, and the members worked very hard to earn a certificate with a blue ribbon and silver star at the achievement day program in Benton, for outstanding work for improving the home and community.

A skit, "Call To Order", was put on by the ladies, one group of club members showed how to conduct a meeting properly and the other group was very humorous as the meeting wasn't conducted as it should have been.

The club started this year with six new members; Mrs. Hosea Edwards, Mrs. Jim Johnson, Mrs. Herman Casey, Mrs. Coy Foster, Mrs. Bill Foster, and Mrs. Herbert Knight.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Phillip Newman and Mrs. Roy Owens.

The February meeting will be in the city hall with Mrs. Willis Owens and Mrs. Joe Hill as co-hostesses. The lesson will be meat and meat preparation by broiling with Mrs. Jim Johnson and Mrs. Phillip Newman giving the lesson.

A lesson on health will also be given by Mrs. E. L. Yondell.

Ladies' Aid of Morehouse Meets

Mrs. Mae Wilson led the Devotional lesson, the theme "The Secrets of God"; scripture reading from Deutronomy 29:29 and she also read a poem entitled "Recipe For Happy New Year".

A short business meeting was conducted by President Marvalene Reynolds. Roll call was given and each one present answered by quoting a scripture verse. Mrs. Mae Wilson read minutes and the financial report from the previous meeting. Old and new business was called for. The meeting was adjourned and all went to the church kitchen where Virgie Wilson was hostess and served refreshments of candy bars and sodas to the following members: Myrtle Freeman, Cora Newton, Mae Wilson, Maxine Launius, Naomi Love, Allie Stroud, Ethel Sloan, Marvalene Reynolds, Margaret Allen and visitors, Anna Lou Rennier, Clydia McIntyre and Clara Taylor.

HUMAN MILK VS. POLIO

Mother's milk as a food for newborn infants may have immunological properties heretofore unproven, suggests Dr. Clement A. Smith of Harvard Medical School.

In recent years, antibodies from the mother were thought to be transmitted to the infant only through the placenta. Therefore mother's milk was held to have no overriding advantage in this regard. New research, however, has proved the existence of polio antibodies in human milk.

TEACHING WOMEN TO RECOGNIZE BREAST CANCER

A community pilot project sponsored by the American Cancer Society and aimed at familiarizing women with the early signs of breast cancer has been set up at Polyclinic Hospital in New York. Major emphasis will be placed on teaching self- examination methods.

"The need. . .is underscored by the fact that 90 per cent of the breast tumors are found by the patient herself before she consults a physician," states Dr. Herbert Volk of the American Cancer Society. Early detection of cancer, permitting early surgery, is vital to survival of patients.

Florida Orange Honey Cubes

You've read about quick breads but this simple recipe produces a delicious, really QUICK quick bread! When time doesn't permit your whipping up your favorite morning coffee cake or afternoon tea bread, try quickie Orange Honey Cubes.

Cut a loaf of day-old unsliced white bread as directed. Combine fresh-frozen Florida orange juice concentrate with sugar, cinnamon, honey, butter and chopped nuts, pour the mixture over the cut loaf, and bake for ten to fifteen minutes. Easy? Delicious!

Orange Honey Cubes

- 1 loaf unsliced day-old white bread
- ¼ cup light brown sugar
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 tablespoons frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted
- ¼ cup melted butter
- ¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts

Cut crust from top and sides of bread. Cut bread lengthwise almost through to bottom crust, then cut crosswise to form 8 cubes. Combine sugar, cinnamon, honey, orange juice concentrate, melted butter and nuts; stir until well blended. Pour mixture over bread, letting some run down into cubes and over top. Tie loosely with string. Place on cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 10-15 minutes. Remove string and serve warm. YIELD: 6 servings.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a college graduate. My husband dropped out of high school in the tenth grade when his father died. I didn't notice the wide intellectual gulf that separated Henry and me until we had been married several months.

Henry's grammar is so bad it is embarrassing. He is not informed on world affairs. When he attempts to discuss politics it is apparent he hasn't read a thing.

The friends Henry brings home from the office are uninformed and shallow. Their wives are stupid and dull. I've abandoned all hope of communicating with them.

What can a wife do when she is starved intellectually? I've met some bright women through my club work but I wouldn't dream of inviting them and their husbands to our home. They'd be bored to death by Henry. Any advice? — ONE WHO TRADED DOWN

Dear Traded: Maybe these dull wives can't distinguish between a Picasso and a hole in the rug but might pick up some useful hints on how to remove an ink spot from a white damask table cloth.

Satisfy your intellectual appetite in the afternoon, Kiddo. If you were half as smart as you think you are you wouldn't be knocking your husband's limited education. You'd be building him up for doing as well as he has in spite of it. (P.S. He was smart enough to marry you, wasn't he?)

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem. A few weeks ago we got a dog named Spot. My best friend (I will call her Donna) is scared to death of most dogs, and especially Spot.

Yesterday she came to our house and the minute she saw Spot she got panicky. You know, Ann, dogs can tell when people are afraid and it makes them even unfriendlier.

Well, Spot began to growl and Donna ran upstairs and locked herself in the bathroom. She wouldn't come out till I assured her that Spot was in the back room with the door closed.

Today she said if I want to do homework with her I'll have to go to her house. It's no fun over there. Donna doesn't have a room of her own and someone is always sick.

I told her how I felt and she said, "I will come over if you promise to keep Spot in another room." I consider Spot a member of the family and I don't think it's fair to lock him up because of my friend's silliness. Do you agree? — ON THE SPOT

Dear On: NO. A hostess is obliged to make her guests comfortable. It's unfortunate that Donna is afraid of dogs, but since she is, you should keep Spot behind a closed door when she is a guest in your home.

Dear Ann: Our 20-year-old daughter is about to be married. She has a well-paying job but has always spent more money than she made.

I know this girl has a staggering number of unpaid bills for clothes, records, costume jewelry, luggage — anything she could buy on credit. I have asked her four times if her bills are paid, but she lies better than most people tell the truth.

Yes, Ann, I've failed, but it's too late to do anything about that now. What I need to know is should I tell her fiance that his bride-to-be is in debt up to her neck? Rush the advice. — TOO LATE SMART

Dear Too Late: Under no circumstances should you discuss this matter with the young man. Urge your daughter to tell him, however, and hope that she will. If she springs unpaid bills on her husband after marriage it could get things off to a wobbly start.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COMMON MEASLES THREATENS THE UNBORN

Common measles affects the outcome of pregnancy and threatens the life of the fetus in some cases, according to Dr. Stewart A. Fish of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine. Of 18 women studied who had had common measles during pregnancy, Dr. Fish reports, pregnancies in all of seven whose cases were severe ended in either abortion, anomalies, or premature delivery. The 11 mild cases showed no damage to the fetuses.

Happily, the threat of measles can now be averted. Recent tests show a new one-shot vaccine developed by Dr. Anton J. Schwarz to be 99.1 per cent effective in immunizing patients against common measles. The vaccine is expected to be available soon. --JAMA,--Scientific Exhibit, Amer. Acad. Ped. Southeast Missouri State Faces Miners Saturday

Indians Go Into Game With Title In Mind

INDIANS HOPE TO KEEP TITLE HOPES ALIVE AGAINST ROLLA

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- Southeast Missouri State College meets University of Missouri, Rolla, here Saturday at 8 p.m., returning from two conference losses on the road which dealt a serious blow to hopes for a fifth-straight MIAA championship.

The Indians are currently 4-2 in the league race, after losing to conference leader Central Missouri and to Southwest Missouri in a two-game trip last weekend. SEMO now is in second place behind Central Missouri, which is undefeated to date in five conference games.

To stay in the fight, the Indians must win their remaining four conference games, three of which are at home. Besides dealing with the up-and-coming Miners of Rolla here this Saturday, and in the last game of the season at Rolla, SEMO must also handle Northeast Missouri and Central on the home court.

If the Indians can fill this tough bill, they will still have to rely on Southwest or Northwest Missouri, or UMR, to come up with a win against Central to gain even a tie.

UMR, under new head coach Billy Key, has come up with a team which, although heavily sprinkled with freshmen, is its best in several years. However, although the Miners have played better this year against conference opponents, their league record stands at 1-4, and a win over the Indians Saturday would be a major upset.

UMR played Southeast Missouri Missouri to a 82-79 decision in the MIAA Holiday Tournament, and played close games at Springfield and Warrensburg. The Miners' lone victory was over Northwest Missouri, and both share the league cellar.

Last weekend's road swing not only dropped SEMO to a 12-5 season record, but also caused a drop in most individual scoring averages. To add to coach Charles Parsley's problems, starting forward Thal Thrower, Kennett senior, suffered a badly-sprained ankle, and is probably lost to the team for the season.

The damage is especially hard on Parsley's bench. Kermit Meystedt, 6-5 sophomore from Cape Girardeau, an occasional starter and a first-line reserve, can ably move into the breach, but leaves the reserves without rebounding strength.

Despite his team's precarious position in the conference race --the worst in five years-- Parsley was still guardedly optimistic about chances for another title.

"If Warrensburg wins their last five games, of course, that's it," he said this week. "But with three of our last four games at home, we have the schedule in our favor, because Warrensburg plays three of four on the road, and Springfield has four of six on the road."

Probable Starters:

Hank Iba After Big Eight Title

Hank Iba, who coached the winning United States basketball team in the Tokyo Olympics, would like nothing better than to win the Big Eight Conference championship with his Oklahoma State Cowboys and become the nation's winningest coach among active college mentors.

The veteran 60-year-old, now in his 36th year of coaching, 31 at Oklahoma State, came within sight of both his goals in college basketball Thursday night.

His Cowboys edged Colorado 59-55 in a three-overtime game at Stillwater to remain at the top of the Big Eight with a 5-0 mark and 12-4 overall. The victory also was the 712th of his college career, putting him only two behind Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, now the nation's winningest coach.

The Oklahoma State story overshadowed the 14th straight of the fourth-ranked Providence Friars, who edged St. Bonaventure 77-76 to remain the nation's only unbeaten major team.

The once-beaten sixth-ranked Davidson Wildcats also won their 14th straight by downing East Carolina 82-68. The eighth-ranked San Francisco Dons, the only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action were beaten by Arizona 71-56.

Drake edged Tulsa 60-58, Houston nipped Baylor 80-78, New Mexico whipped Texas Western 69-58 and Arkansas overcame Mississippi State 84-69 in other games.

"Winning the conference championship will mean more to me than the Olympics," Iba has said several times. Oklahoma State's victory over Colorado was a giant stride towards that goal.

Two layups by Fred Moulder and Paul Labrue, both on passes from Larry Hawk, won for the Cowboys in the third extra period. The score was tied 26-26 at halftime, 49-49 at the end of regulation time, 51-51 after the first overtime and 53-53 after the second OT.

St. Bonaventure erased a 12-point deficit as the Bonnies just missed handing Providence its first defeat. It took Bill Blair's two free throws in the last 20 seconds of the game at Providence to keep the Friars' slate clean.

Bulldogs To Face Malden Saturday

It's those barking Bulldogs getting back into the swing of things again here Saturday night when they face the tough Malden Green Wave.

Sikeston, after clipping off five consecutive victories before losing to Greenville in the Poplar Bluff Invitational, will be going for their seventh victory against four defeats.

Although Sikeston's record is six and four at present they have scored one less point than opponents, 541-542, for an average of 54.1 points per game.

George Tucker is still leading the Bulldogs in total points scored with 128. McKinley Lambert is second with 117. Mike Couch follows with 95, Rob Mitchell 67, and Richard Montgomery with 66.

Bulldogs Take Blue Jays For Second Time

The wrestling Bulldogs turned in their fifth win of the season last night by defeating the Charleston Blue Jays 28-21 for the second time this year. This gives Sikeston a record of five wins and three losses.

Action began with the 95 pound division and little Billy Vaught caught up with his opponent, Don Weekly, to pin him in 50:9 of the third period.

Charleston won the 103 division by forfeit due to an injury.

David Whitaker, (112) won over Dondie Sutherland in a 6-4 decision. Sutherland defeated Whitaker in the previous match.

Terry Collins (120) lost a 6-9 decision to Robinson.

Ken Cantrell (127) got Sikeston's winning ways started again by defeating Nath Jones 15-6.

Troy Bowden lost to tough Bill Brashears in the 133 division when Bill pinned him in 1:27 of the first period.

Bob Fowler was edged out by Robert Rogers 9-8.

Robert Sites (145) continues to roll undefeated as he pinned Calimore Stallings with :52 left in the second round.

Bill Humphries lost a 6-0 decision to Emmet Burke.

Joe Crain, in his second match of the season, pinned Oliver French in 1:32 of the second round. This gives Crain a 2-0 record.

James Marcy (180) continued his undefeated season by pinning Vernon Cates in the third round.

Last but not least, Tom Masterson of the heavyweights wrestled big Don Watkins to a 3-3 draw.

Wichita Seeking Perfect Record

Wichita hopes to keep its Missouri Valley record perfect against Louisville in the final game of All America Dave Stallworth's collegiate career Saturday night at Wichita, while runner-up St. Louis takes on skidding Cincinnati.

The Bradley-Tulsa game will remain an afternoon contest, although television was cancelled because of the Churchill funeral.

Wichita, ranked no. 5 nationally, will be without 6-10 Nate Bowman, sidelined for scholastic troubles the rest of the season and without the 6-7 Stallworth after the game with Louisville, the Valley's third-place team at 4-2. Wichita stands 5-0 in league play, St. Louis 4-1.

Bradley is next at 3-3, Tulsa 2-3, Drake 2-4, Cincinnati 1-4 and North Texas 0-4.

Dexter Pulls Off Biggest Upset of County Tourney

BLOOMFIELD -- The Tourney shy Advance Hornets were pulled under again last night in semi-final action by the hot blasting Dexter Bearcats, 71-67. The "B" game found Advance again in the pit, this time with the Bloomfield Wildcats and the Hornets came in with a strong finish to win 55-46.

In the Christmas Holiday Tournament the Advance five churned along to get into the semi - finals, but the Gideon Bulldogs pulled off the biggest upset to hit this year and defeated them by one point. Last night they were outplayed for the first three quarters, and had a last quarter rally nipped off before they could come in with the victory.

Advance, after trying a host of different defenses, finally went into a man to man press and almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Dexter battled out to lead by four in the first period, 16-12. They continued their barrage the second frame to pull out by eight as first half play ended.

As second half play cranked up the Bearcats managed to pull out at one time to lead by 16 in the third period before the Hornets could start finding the range. Big Bob Moroni and sophomore guard, Bill Morgan, each scored ten points the last frame to pull in just four shy of Dexter as the game ended.

Gordon McKee again proved unstoppable by scoring 24 points. He doesn't miss once he is within ten feet of the basket.

Orioles Fluttering In To Sign Pacts

If the Baltimore Orioles, who came within a flutter of the American League pennant last season, are to wind up perched on the nest with all the eggs in it this year, comebacks could be the key.

Six players returned signed contracts to the Orioles Thursday and three of them — pitchers Mike McCormick and Chuck Estrada and first - baseman Norm Siebern — will be out to reverse poor records in 1965.

McCormick, who broke into the majors as a teen-ager with the New York Giants in 1956 and won the National League earned-run average title in 1960, has been a major disappointment to the Orioles since coming in a trade in 1962.

He has won just six games in the last two seasons and spent most of 1964 toiling for the Orioles' International League farm club at Rochester. But the southpaw is only 26 and might still become a winner at Baltimore.

Estrada was a key member of the Orioles' youthful pitching staff and won 33 games in his first two seasons. But, like McCormick, Chuck has suffered from arm trouble and produced just six victories in the last two years for Baltimore. He underwent surgery last season and, at 27, could still come back to make the difference for the Birds.

Siebern, acquired from Kansas City in an even-up swap of first basemen last winter, slumped badly at the plate. Norm, a career .284 hitter, batted only .245 and his 12 home runs and 56 runs batted in were quite a drop from the 24 homers and 72 RBI Gentile produced the year before.

Other Orioles to sign Thursday were relief pitcher Stu Miller and rookie hurlers Pat McMahon and Ted Miller. The veteran Miller worked in 66 games and had a 7-7 record as the Orioles' top reliever.

Sam Perry Equals Indoor Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Perry, 19-year-old son of a New York janitor, had just equaled the world's indoor record for the 60-yard dash, 5.9 seconds, and was being besieged by reporters.

"It feels good," the Fordham junior said in answer to the inevitable question: "How do you feel?"

"It feels good to be the world's fastest human."

If there was any malice, any small dart aimed at Bob Hayes, it wasn't apparent. Sam said it with a straight face. Hayes, the Florida A&M flash who set the record in New York a year ago and then won the Olympic 100 meters, had proudly worn that title for two years.

Now he's turned pro and off the indoor track circuit, but still very much on young Sam's mind.

"The competition isn't as severe this year," said Perry, who missed the Olympics because of a leg injury. "That makes it tougher on me. There's no one pushing me. I have to push myself. That's tough."

It certainly didn't look tough Thursday night when Perry won the 60 before a crowd of 15,952 watching the Wanamaker-Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden.

The four finalists in the 60 had to sweat out two false starts before they got away. Perry, running against Olympic sprinters Paul Drayton and Mel Pender, and Ed Roberts, got a good start and had a clear-cut lead by 30 yards. He won it by at least a yard and with the victory nailed down the award as the meet's outstanding athlete.

Was he shooting for a 5.9, equaled only by Hayes?

"Everytime I go off the blocks I'm leaping at 5.9," he said.

Perry, overshadowed by Hayes for two years and knocked out of the Olympics by his leg trouble, was easily the highlight of a surprisingly so-so meet that opened a three- city, three-meet indoor track weekend.

He's skipping the Telegram-Maple Leaf Games in Toronto tonight, but will be in Boston for the Boston A.A. Games Saturday.

Bill Crothers, the Toronto pharmacist who won the half-mile easily by 10 yards in 1:51.2, is going to make all three. Crothers, unbeaten indoors this winter, said:

"I'm not going for any records now. I'm just running for fun. This was a very comfortable race. If I have to run fast enough for a record, maybe I will, but I didn't have to here."

Middle School Rolls To Seventh Win

Tomorrow the Bulldogs face rough Bluff, who has been averaging 86 points per ball game. They have climbed over the century mark 3 times and one of the times was against the Central Tigers. Game time will be at 1:30.

Little Guys Are — Leading In Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three little guys shared the lead with two big fellows today in the Lucky International Open Golf Tournament. Precedent rules against the bruisers.

No hefty pro ever has captured the top prize in the previous four years of this $57,500 tournament.

The three little guys who carried three-under-par 68s into the second round are Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla.; Butch Baird of Carlton Oaks, Calif., and veteran Gardner Dickinson of Lost Tree Village, Fla. Baird at 150 pounds is the heavyweight of this group.

The comparative Goliaths are George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., and Jack Montgomery of Fort Worth, Tex. Archer is 6-foot-6 — big even for a professional golfer — and Montgomery is 6-2. Each weighs 185 pounds.

Gene Littler and Jack Burke at 165 pounds are the heaviest former winners of the Lucky. Gary Player weighed 150 and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez is only 120, including golf shoes.

Littler started today at Harding Municipal course at 72, Rodriguez at 73. The two other previous winners are absent.

Billy Casper had a 72 and Tony Lema 73 in the opening round on a day meant for professionals other than favorites.

Billy Martindale of Jacksonville, Tex., was all alone at 69 after 18 holes of the 72-hole event.

There were 10 golfers grouped at 70. After today, 90 of 144 pros will be left to play with the 10 amateurs, who were led by Guy Bill's first-round 72, one-over-par.

Darrell Royal And Conference Dislike A.F.L.

Darrell Royal and the Southeastern Conference have no love for the American Football League, AFL Commissioner Joe Foss doesn't like redshirting, George Sauer Jr., has no scholarship and Darrel Royal doesn't have George Sauer Jr.

That was the linescore today in the latest installment of what appears to be an endless controversy in present-day football.

Moving from secret drafts to double signings to early signings, football has arrived at Sauer, a star pass receiver on Royal's Texas team who has relinquished his college scholarship in anticipation of a professional contract with the New York Jets of the AFL.

Royal is incensed that Sauer, son of Jets' personnel director George Sauer Sr., would pass up his final season of eligibility at Texas to turn pro. Sauer has the 1965 season left — even though his original class graduates in June — because he was redshirted as a sophomore in 1962.

A redshirt is a player who is withheld from varsity competition for one season, usually in his sophomore year, in the hope he can be of more help to his team in his fifth year of school.

Sauer declined to say Thursday night whether he will sign a pro contract but did say, "I definitely will not use my fifth year of football eligibility at Texas."

He also said he has moved from his room in the athletic dormitory and has paid his own tuition and fees for the spring semester. He will need only 10 credits after the spring term for graduation as a mathematics major.

Royal doesn't want to lose Sauer.

"We've wet nursed him through three years and toughed him up and now just when we're getting ready to capitalize on him, bam, he's gone," the coach said.

But Royal also threatened to bar all AFL personnel from Texas practice fields, dressing rooms and press boxes if the Jets sign Sauer now.

The Jets, incidentally, say they didn't go to Sauer but that he announced his interest in turning pro immediately.

If the pass catcher does go with the Jets, he by no means will be the first collegian to pass up a final year of eligibility. At least eight fellow redshirts already have signed with teams in both leagues for the 1965 season.

Although the Southeastern Conference did not concern itself with the Sauer affair, it did vote to sever relations with the AFL because of the league's stand on early signings of college players.

The conference's sports publicity directors, acting at the request of the schools' athletic directors and coaches, passed a resolution stating they will refuse to cooperate with AFL representatives in any way.

AFL people will not be permitted in SEC facilities and will not be provided with information about pro prospects playing for SEC schools.

Conference spokesmen said the action was taken because the AFL refused to say it would stop signing collegians before their entire seasons were over. The NFL made such a change in its constitution at the request of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

An AFL official, however, pointed out Thursday night that the league didn't refuse to stop such signings but contended instead that a meeting of the two leagues with the NCAA was necessary to iron out the situation.

Earlier in the day, Commissioner Foss attacked the practice of redshirting and defended the right of a boy to earn a living as a pro football player, engineer or chemist after four years of college.

They got a form of it and turned against it. Then it was representative government. But they cheered when the military took over again this week.

Two years ago Buddhist unrest had religious overtones. They pictured themselves as oppressed by Diem, a Catholic. Since then, religion and politics have come together.

Evidently some influential Buddhist leaders have the idea that in some way they will be able to deal with the Communist threat because they are Asians and the Americans are not. The Communists have made the most of this notion.

The confusion has been a windfall to the Viet Cong. But now there probably are elements among the Buddhists hell-bent to keep the boat rocking. The Buddhist rank and file must by now be heavily infiltrated by Viet Cong agents.

What do Buddhists Want?

In the bewilderment generated by the Buddhists and the generals in South Viet Nam, the most baffling question is: What do the Buddhists want? The Buddhists themselves do not seem to know.

The new military coup in Saigon hardly can be interpreted as a step toward the stability the United States has sought in its efforts to keep South Viet Nam out of Communist hands.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the durable young string puller, simply reasserted military rule. In effect, it was there all the time in spite of a facade of civilian government under the now deposed premier, Tran Van Huong.

Buddhists cheered Khanh's new coup, but it is difficult to see what they hope to gain from it. They demonstrated just as violently last summer against Khanh as they did against Huong.

Some U.S. policy makers profess to see something encouraging in the latest development: that perhaps it will lead to some sort of viable civil rule. But Americans periodically expressed encouragement in the past, only to have their hopes smashed by new upheavals. There have been seven major ones since November 1963 when President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown.

Indeed, there can be new frustration for Americans. The upshot may be that Washington will have to choose between Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. Khanh, who evidently cannot abide the U.S. envoy. Since the Buddhists enthusiastically share Khanh's distaste for Taylor, his usefulness is in doubt.

There can be no solution to Saigon's violent instability until somebody finds out what the Buddhists want. They have been the key.

But do they know what they want? First, it was civilian rule.

Pair Off With Prunes

Prunes make good partners with other foods, servable at all meals. They pair off with meat, fish, poultry and vegetables as well as other fruits, in the vegetable, main course, salad or dessert.

For an intriguing easy-to-do entree, for example, try prunes in your next meat loaf.

Allow one cup of chopped, plumped prunes for each two pounds of meat loaf mixture. Combine ingredients as usual and place in a baking pan. Then press whole, pitted, plumped prunes into the top of the loaf so each slice will have a prune garnish. Bake and serve as usual.

Mashed prunes in mashed sweetpotatoes make an excellent vegetaole to serve with baked ham. To prepare, place mashed sweets in a baking pan and swirl in mashed, plumped prunes. Dot generously with butter and bake in moderate oven. Serve hot - perhaps garnished with a whole prune.

For more challenging pairing off with prunes, try these recipes recommended by USDA home economists.

PAIRING OFF WITH PRUNES
RECIPES

SPICED SHORT RIBS WITH PRUNES
3 lbs. beef short ribs
Fat or drippings
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. allspice
1/4 tsp. ground cloves
3 tbsp. vinegar
2 cups dried prunes

Brown ribs in fat. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add water; cover pan tightly, and simmer for 1 hour. Combine sugar and spices with vinegar then add to beef with prunes. Continue cooking 1 hour or until meat is tender. Skim off fat. Thicken cooking sauce if desired and serve with short ribs.
Yield: 6 servings.

LAMB AND PRUNE ARMENIAN
2 lbs. breast of lamb, cut in serving pieces
Fat or drippings
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
2 cloves garlic, peeled and sliced
1 6-oz. can tomato paste
1/4 tsp. thyme
1 cup tomato juice or water
2 onions, peeled and sliced
1 cup dried prunes
1 cup water
3 cups hot cooked rice (from 1 cup uncooked rice)
3 carrots, peeled and sliced

In melted fat, brown lamb until crisp on all sides. Pour off drippings. Season meat with salt and pepper. Add garlic, tomato paste, thyme and tomato juice. Cover pan and simmer 45 minutes. Add onions carrots, prunes and water. Cover and simmer 45 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender, adding more water if necessary. Serve with rice. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

The mistake of optimistic people is not in expecting too much of the future, but in expecting too little from the present.

Learn by Listening With Spanish Records

A child first learns to speak by listening to the voices which are around him. The student also needs to hear words, as they are actually spoken in Spanish. SPEED SPEECH now enables you to hear the words, as you study Spanish by this entirely new concept in teaching. The textbook is coordinated with two 45 RPM records, and when you learn the "MAGIC KEYS" which are explained in the course, you are on your way to learning Spanish, the SPEED SPEECH way. This system is the simplest, yet most effective, way to learn a foreign language, and is now being offered only through the Daily Sikeston Standard.

William Archer was always a diligent student of Spanish, however, when he and his family moved to Mexico, he found that he could not converse with the natives. This complete inability to communicate properly was the inspiration for the creation of Spanish SPEED SPEECH. One astonishing fact which is brought out in the course is that there are thousands of words that have the same spelling in Spanish that they do in English. You can control these words in your Spanish vocabulary by simply changing the pronunciation from English to Spanish. "Ideal" is pronounced "E-day-ahl" in Spanish. Simple?

Spanish SPEED SPEECH is available only through The Daily Sikeston Standard. Since it is being offered as a public service to our readers, we are able to give you the textbook and records at considerable savings by following these simple instructions:

Send the easy order blank, which will appear in The Daily Sikeston Standard several times each week. However, you may order only the textbook, if you desire. Mail the order blank and check or money order for $3.04 for each item, payable to The Daily Sikeston Standard.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1965. There are 336 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1737, Thomas Paine was born in England.

On this date:

In 1843, our 25th president, William McKinley, was born at Niles, Ohio.

In 1850, Henry Clay offered Congress his famous compromise resolution on slavery.

In 1861, Kansas was admitted to the Union as the 34th state.

In 1900, the American League of Baseball Clubs was organized in Philadelphia.

In 1945, U.S. forces broke into Germany from the Ardennes Bulge for the first time.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower assured Congress that U.S. military units off Formosa were for defensive use only.

Five years ago — President Charles de Gaulle declared that the policy of self-determination for Algeria was the only policy worthy of France.

One year ago — President Johnson held his first live radio-television news conference.

Health & Safety Tips

SPORTS FADS

The athelete -- including the weekend golfer or skier-- who experiments with pep pills, whiffs of oxygen, odd dietary supplements and other such fads in the hope of improving performance is doomed to disappointment and may even be courting bodily harm.

Sports, with their premium on endurance and top performance, are fertile soil for experimentation with a wide varity of what physicians call "ergogenic aids", erogogenic being defined as increasing the capacity of bodily and mental effort, especially by eliminating fatigue symptoms.

The mystique of the readiness of the athlete for competition intrigues the sports enthusiast, says a joint comment of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations and the Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports of the American Medical Association.

None of the fads, fallacies and quackery associated with ergogenic aids is of any more assistance to athletic success than the superstition of never changing underwear during a winning streak, the joint statement says. And some of the practices may even be hazardous if carried to extremes.

For safe and effective performance, there still is no alternative to the fullest utilization of one's natural resources through good personal health practices, top physical conditioning and confidence in one's ability based on careful coaching and good medical supervision.

The four-minute mile barrier was broken ten years ago and running the mile in the 3:50's is now commonplace although it was long considered impossible. Athletes set new records not through gimmicks but through spartan self-discipline and effort focused on peak condition and extreme refinement of skill.

The two sports groups label over reliance on isometric exercises as a fad for which claims have been exaggerated. Isometrics can increase muscular strength but they do not assist range of motion or heart-lung endurance. The notion that extra vitamins are needed by athletes is labeled as a fallacy. The essentials of a normal good diet with sufficient quantity to satisfy increased caloric expenditure are all that's required.

Pep pills that lessen the feeling of fatigue obviously can be dangerous, in that they lead to exertion far beyond the body's capacity, and also impair judgement.

For top performance in sports, there's no artifical substitute for good coaching, thorough conditioning, many hours of practice and general good health. These cannot be obtained from a bottle or box.

Johnson said "it is imperative that the electoral vote of a state be cast for those persons who receive the greatest number of votes for president and vice president —and no one else."

The outlook for action on this proposed constitutional change is clouded by controversy over proposed reforms of the whole electoral college system and by the precedence being given to dealing with vice-presidential vacancies and presidential inability.

Pulse of World Has Slowed In This Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the world seems unusually quiet these days, even dull, one reason is that President John F. Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev were better actors, travelers and talkers than their successors.

With them gone, this has become the era of the technicians in Washington and Moscow. But those two capitals aren't the only places where the sparkle has diminished.

The pulse of the world has slowed down because there is not one truly dramatic figure left, or in sight, to make it skip a beat except for French President Charles de Gaulle, and he's old and he's been playing it cool.

Yet this century has had its share of vivid men, particularly these: Three presidents, Wilson and the two Roosevelts, the Kaiser, Sir Winston Churchill, Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Hitler, Mussolini, Gandhi, Nehru.

President Johnson is at his best operating behind the scenes. There's hardly a peep out of the men who took Khrushchev's place.

Kennedy kept American eyes and expectations fixed on the White House if only because his televised news conferences were always a good show: His wit, his gestures, his facial expressions, his sharp intelligence, and there was no end of excitement, even in his first year with his big boner in backing the disastrous Cuban invasion, his trip to Europe, his summit meeting with Khrushchev, his stand on the Berlin Wall.

Johnson talks a lot and even performs a bit, like pulling the Beagle's ears or grabbing tourists' hands, but he is not at his best in speaking or writing. He reportedly bristles when anyone suggests he's corny.

He holds news conferences everywhere — in his office, on the White House lawn, at his ranch, and Wednesday in his bedroom — but almost all are out of public view because he deliberately avoids news sessions on television.

Johnson has stayed close to home and out of dramatic situations. His tendency has been to soft-pedal, not dramatize, unpleasant events like the riots in Panama last year or the deteriorating war in Viet Nam.

In the end he may prove far superior to Kennedy in accomplishments but it seems sure now he's not in the same class with Kennedy as an actor.

Just a little over 100 days ago Khrushchev was put in limbo by his Kremlin colleagues. His place was taken by a two-man leadership: Premier Kosygin and Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev.

They've been practically speechless ever since. The party explained one reason they moved in was becaus Khrushchev had become too much of a one-man show. They called it a leadership cult.

Kosygin and Brezhnev—compared with the bouncy, flamboyant, sometimes giddy, merry, somber, cheerful, threatening, coaxing, cajoling, beguiling and always forceful Khrushchev — are as undramatic as a grocer taking inventory.

De Gaulle doesn't say much but he's one man who doesn't have to. More than any modern leader he could make a grand spectacle out of silence. If he just leads a parade, with his nose in the air, he can make it look like an expedition against the gates of time.

Harold Wilson, the British prime minister, is no fiery figure, either. He acts like a technician, too. Chiang Kai-shek is still alive but he was always a dead-pan leader.

Red China's Mao Tze-tung is the one midcentury man who might have been expected to keep thunder rolling with his pronouncements but he has stayed in the background, letting his aides do most of the talking.

Katzenbach is Appointed as Atty. General

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson, who has vowed a "war on poverty," has chosen for his attorney general a man who avows deep concern with the law's impact on the poor.

Nicholas deBelleville Katzenbach, 43, nominated for the post Thursday, may be expected to react vigorously and firmly to violations of civil rights, criminal and antitrust laws.

But associates who know him best say Katzenbach hopes to do more -- to initiate as well as enforce. And the brunt of his initiative, they predict, will be thrown into a campaign to balance the scales of justice on behalf of the nation's poor.

With his predecessor, Robert F. Kennedy, Katzenbach was a guiding force in establishing the office of criminal justice within the department. Its aim is to ensure, as Kennedy put it, that the department is "more than a department of prosecution and is, in fact, a Department of Justice."

A Mexican friend, Don Ramiro, and I sat up late discussing our philosophies of life. Finally I suggested that his wife might be worried about him, or even angry.

"Amigo," he said, "Mexican wives prefer the pleasure of forgiving their husbands for staying out late to thanking them for remaining at home."

THE FAST PACE OF LIFE

You'll find lots of people concerned about the tempo of life today. But most of them simply catch a breath when they can, and try to keep up with the pace.

There is something more important!

The winner trains . . . and plans his race. He may lag behind for a while, but he is confident of hidden resources. When others have burned up their energy and enthusiasm, he forges to the front. As they wilt in the home stretch, he sprints across the finish line.

The Church can help you train . . . and plan! A Christian is concerned with his own spiritual stamina rather than the fast pace of life. He is ready with hidden resources when the moment of challenge comes.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

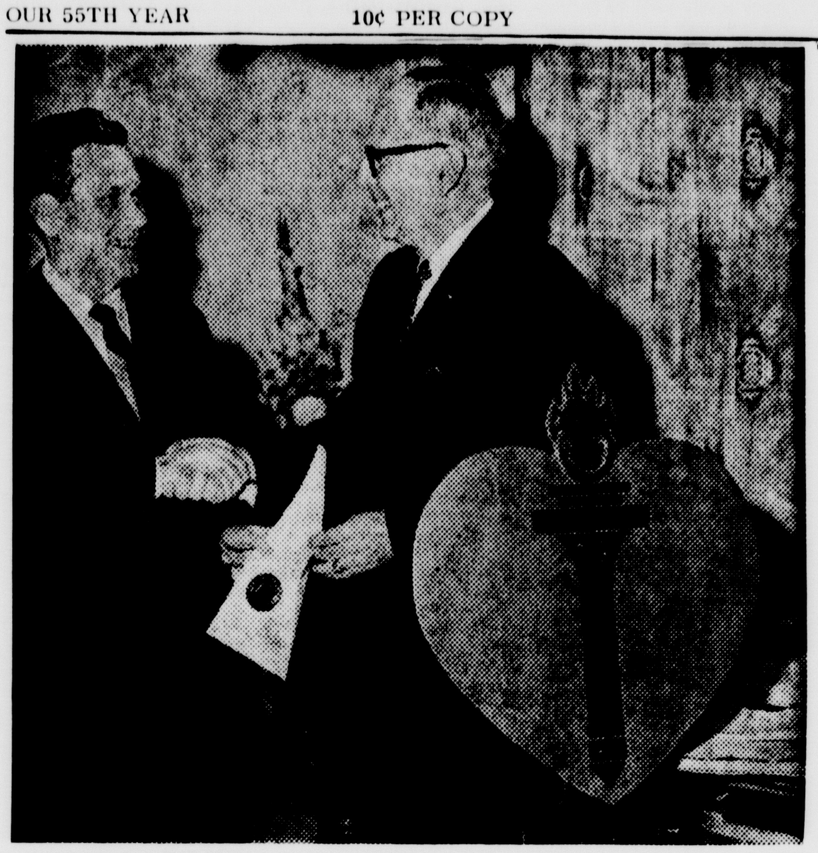
Committee to Investigate Air Academy



GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES is shown presenting the signed 1965 "Heart Month" proclamation to M. Graham Clark, LL.D. (President of the School of the Ozarks), State Heart Fund Chairman for the Missouri Heart Association and board member of the American Heart Association and the Missouri Heart Association.

The proclamation officially designates February as "Heart Fund" month in Missouri . . . encouraging support by all Missourians in the battle against the No. 1 killer and most serious health problem of the 20th century.

The high point of the month's campaign is the "Heart Sunday" door-to-door collection on February 21.

Governor Hearnes stated that his designation of February as "Heart Month" represents his first signed proclamation.

Thus Far 65 Have Resigned

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — A five-man committee picked by Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert will review all policies of the Air Force Academy in the wake of a classroom cheating scandal that caused 65 cadet resignations.

More resignations are expected as investigators continue questioning cadets — perhaps as many as 700. Under the academy's honor code any cadet who knew about the cheating and did not report it is subject to dismissal.

Zuckert announced in Washington Thursday he had appointed Gen. Thomas D. White, former Air Force chief of staff, to head the committee and "review fundamental programs of the Air Force Academy."

Serving with him are Dean Hardy Dillard, law professor at the University of Virginia; Dr. Robert L. Stearns, former president of the University of Colorado; Charles B. Thornton, president of Litton Industries, and Lt. Gen. Joseph J. Nazzaro, vice commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command.

Zuckert said the committee will seek the basic causes for the honor code violations.

Academy sources said resignations may total 300 before the investigation ends, probably around Feb. 10. The student enrollment was 2,567 on Jan. 15, just before the first announcement of the investigation. Zuckert said last week more than 100 cadets, including 30 varsity football players, were implicated.

The investigation has shown that a cadet stole a key to a locker containing examination questions and then enlisted the help of 10 or 12 other cadets to sell them. Academy officers said most of those quitting have resigned for failure to report their knowledge of the affair.

The honor code requires the enrolling cadet to pledge not to "lie, steal or cheat, and must not tolerate anyone who does."

L. B. Dockins, route one, Bell City, charged with careless and imprudent driving, and being under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was placed in the city jail.

Veteran Mail Carrier Ends Long Service

LILBOURN-- For 40 years Charles Shelby carried the mail on Lilbourn Route 1 so, Thursday night, some 150 of his route patrons and local residents gathered at the high school cafeteria for a surprise party to the retiring veteran mailman.

Before taking the job as a rural mail carrier, Mr. Shelby taught school in New Madrid county, for six years.

Mr. Shelby was in the first class to graduate from the Lilbourn high school; has been president of the Kiwanis Club and, also, president of the now non-existent Lions Club; an active member of the Methodist Church; he is also an honorary fireman and active in Boy Scout work.

In reminiscing he recalled that when he started to carry the mail he got $88 a month; he has worn out 15 new cars and seven used cars, and one winter, made part of his mail route by motor boat.

The biggest change he has observed on his route, he remarked, is the smaller amount of money orders written by the carrier. At one time money orders averaged from 70 to 80 a day but of recent years, only two or three. People, he said, just aren't buying so much from catalogs as they used to.

In his earlier days as a mail carrier he doubled as a grocery delivery man; brought medicine and performed many other chores for the folks along his route.

An ardent fisherman, he has a cabin on Kentucky Lake and plans to do a lot of fishing in his free time.

As a token of appreciation, his friends presented him with a going-away gift-you guessed it -- a complete fishing tackle outfit.

UNIQUE -- Using a unique mode of travel, 13-year-old Eileen Stryker whizzes past a closed Kalamazoo, Mich., school. Many Michigan schools have been closed because of a severe ice storm.

Prompt Action Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opens debate today on the $1.09-billion Appalachia aid bill and hopes to take a final vote on it Monday.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield had to abandon plans for action on the measure Thursday after the Senate had taken hours longer than expected to complete work on a water pollution control measure.

The two chief sponsors of the Appalachia bill, Sens. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., and John S. Cooper, R-Ky., planned to make their speeches on it today.

They said action might come today on some amendments but that key votes would be Monday.

An alternative bill introduced Thursday by Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Public Works Committee, would authorize the President to set up regional commissions to work up development programs for other areas similar to that contained in the Appalachia bill.

Randolph, No. 2 Democrat on the Public Works Committee, said assurances would be given that the committee would go to work promptly on this bill. He said that he believed, with these pledges, amendments seeking to add aid for the Upper Great Lakes region, for the Ozarks and for some other regions would not be attached to the Appalachia bill.

The Appalachia legislation would provide federal funds to build highways and inaugurate a variety of other projects for areas of an 11-state region which has been economically depressed for many years.

All of West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Virginia would be covered by the aid program.

The water-pollution bill, first major administration-endorsed measure to clear the Senate this year, was passed Thursday by a 68-8 vote and sent to the House after six hours of Debate.

It would authorize larger federal grants to help cities build sewage-treatment plants, establish an $80-million research program on better methods of handling sewage, and beef up government procedures for enforcing antipollution measures.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fast congressional action appears certain on a constitutional amendment urged by President Johnson to deal with the problems of presidential disability and vice-presidential vacancies.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee had scheduled a hearing on it for today even before Johnson's special message was sent to the Capitol late Thursday. And the House Judiciary Committee has arranged for hearings starting Feb. 9.

The proposed amendment was introduced in the Senate early this month by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., with 75 other senators as cosigners. And in the House it is being sponsored by the chairman and top GOP member of the Judiciary Committee.

One part provides that if a vacancy occurs in the office of vice president it shall be filled by presidential appointment subject to the approval of a majority in both the Senate and the House.

The other part of the proposed amendment establishes procedures under which the vice president would take over as acting president in case the president is unable to discharge the duties of his office.

The Senate approved the amendment by a 65-0 vote last Sept. 29, but no action was taken by the House before Congress adjourned.

Johnson told Congress is was astonishing that since the adoption of the Constitution in 1789 "we have neither perfected the provisions for orderly continuity in the executive direction of our system nor, as yet, paid the price our continuing inaction so clearly invites and so recklessly risks."

The President also called for another constitutional amendment to wipe out what he termed the ever present possibility that presidential electors "may substitute their own will for the will of the people."

In presidential elections Americans cast their votes for electors who are free legally to vote for someone other than the

District Engineer Points Out Economic Value to the Area of Highway System

At a meeting of the membership of the Chamber of Commerce at the Mid-Towner Thursday noon, Highway Engineer W. D. Carney was the principal speaker.

He pointed out the strategic location of Sikeston with the state highway system, the impact of highways leading through or near the city; the fact that it is almost centrally located in District 10 in its 12-county area.

Other points of interest in his address to members of the chamber, were the amount of money spent in this area by the division headquarters, the fact that the city of Sikeston itself receives 3,100 square feet of space on signs in the area.

As to the location of Sikeston in the State Highway System, Mr. Carney pointed out, "In my opinion, Sikeston has a very strategic location, because within the city limits or adjacent thereto are located U. S. routes 60, 61 and 62; Interstate Routes 55 and 57, and State Route 114. It must be added that all these are high volume highways with an unlimited potential of transportation, and the future of this city should never be less than what the people of this city and you 'the Chamber of Commerce' desire. With this in mind I am sure that progress will be continuous in the years ahead."

"Primarily, the State Highway Department is responsible for the design, construction and maintenance of the state highway system for the benefit of the highway users. Most generally we are thought of in this manner as providing highway-user service, but today the added economic effect is created while this service is being provided.

"We in the department believe we are an economic asset to this city, and the whole area of District 10. This economic effect can be described in several ways: During the calendar year 1964, District 10 has received contracts in the amount of $19,-100,630. Of this total contractors have been paid approximately $12,200,000. Of this volume of work, a considerable amount of money was spent by them in the area where the work was performed. Of the total amount paid about 25 per cent was in labor, or about $3,000,-000.

"The area received other assets such as fuel and repair parts by the contractors and materials used in the construction. There are 608 employees in District 10, who receive $2,651,000 in salaries, that go into the area economy.

"Our total maintenance cost for highways in 1964 was $2,-650,000, purchased for right-of-way alone. The cost of signs, signals, lighting and pavement marking last year was $341,-550, which included salaries, materials and equipment rental. In our maintenance work our forces used 5,102,000 gallons of oil and 285,000 cubic yards materials. The amount of material produced in District 10 amounted to 1,201,000 tons, or equivalent to a railroad train 170 miles in length. The cement used was 469,000 barrels, which would amount to a string of railroad cars 13 miles long. To sum up this economic impact, would equal $19,857,000 in the 12-county area.

"The economic benefit to Sikeston is two-fold. The construction that has been in progress, some which is virtually complete, has had a tremendous effect on the present. Second, the location of District headquarters has had its effect in the past and present, and will continue to do so in the future.

"Let us consider the construction work in progress. The contract amount of work let last year totalled more than $11 million, with practically the entire amount being contracted on Interstate Route 55. Of this amount Sikeston has received a good portion in payrolls, materials and other products required for construction.

"As of Dec. 31, 1964, there were 185 employees of the Department, who are located in this area, with a monthly income of $73,269, or an annual payroll of $88,000.

"Our Maintenance and Traffic divisions operate a large portion of their crews from this area, and a considerable amount of material is purchased from local firms. A large portion of our vehicles and equipment is stationed in this vicinity.

"In 1964 our Equipment Division purchased repair parts amounting to $46,123 from firms in Sikeston. Fuel for vehicles and equipment is let to local supplies to furnish our needs. Fuel purchased in Sikeston last year was 106,000 gal. gasoline, 5,000 gal. diesel fuel, 2,500 gal, kerosene and 7,400 quarts oil. I am pointing these figures to show you the impact the Division has on the economy here.

"Even though the construction of the Interstate Routes is nearly completed in this vicinity, this work is continuing on the system. Just recently we were able to open 14 miles of Interstate Route 55 from Route 60 and Interstate Route 57 north to Route 77 east of Benton. If work progresses as planned by the contractors, we expect to open 31 miles more on Interstate Route 55 in 1965. This will include the portion from Route 77 north to Scott City, and from Interstate Route 57 and Route 60 south to New Madrid.

"It is anticipated that during 1965 we will let construction contracts amounting to $14,-600,000 in this District, and would include 17.5 miles of work on Interstate 55 from New Madrid to Portageville and Hayti. Along with the Interstate construction, Sikeston has a never-ending benefit due to its location near Interstates 55 and 57. I am sure you are aware of the power of advertising, and many of you have noticed the large green colored signs. The name SIKESTON appears on many of these signs and when you figure space, it amounts to more than 3,100 square feet of advertising. As the construction of the Interstate system progresses and more routes opened to traffic, this city will be called to the attention of motorists by these signs.

"To summarize the status of the Interstate System in District 10, I will call to your attention that Interstate 55, which begins at the Perry county line and continues south to the

LBJ Taking it Easy But Also Keeping Busy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson still is battling remnants of a cold while getting ready to swing back into full stride of official duties.

The President has been taking it fairly easy — easy for him, that is — mixing rest with work.

He still has a bit of cough but no temperature, aides said, and until Thursday afternoon was reported "taking life very easy."

He took it easy Thursday by doing such things as sending a message to Congress urging it to get busy and do something about (1) the problems of possible presidential disability, (2) filling the vacancy when there is no vice president and (3) changing the electoral system to abolish the electoral college but not electoral votes in the states and provide for the situation that could arise if the president-elect, the vice president-elect, or both, died before taking office.

In addition he: Sent his annual economic report to Capitol Hill.

Nominated acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to be attorney general and Ramsey Clark to be deputy attorney general.

Finally persuaded W. Marvin Watson, Texas state Democratic chairman and steel company official, to take a White House job as a $28,500 a year special assistant to the President.

Filled some diplomatic posts by appointing, among others, Angier Biddle Duke, the State Department's former protocol chief, to be ambassador to Spain.

Let it be known that seven or eight more similar appointments will be coming along in the next week or two.

For today, there were no appointments on the Johnson schedule. But that didn't mean no work — there were no appointments on Thursday's schedule, either.

Emergency Cases

Two persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Thursday.

Allen Baker, Sikeston, caught finger in grinding machine and Anthony Hays, Sikeston, fell from chair cutting head.

U.S. Delegates Pay Tribute To Churchill

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. delegation to Sir Winston Churchill's funeral paid him homage today at Westminster Hall.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk led the Americans. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was expected to visit the bier late in the afternoon.

The American delegation stood in silence for five minutes before the flag-draped coffin.

In addition to Rusk, the American mourners included: W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador in London and Moscow and a friend of Churchill's; Chief Justice Earl Warren who some reporters mistook for Eisenhower, and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

An official at the U.S. Embassy said Eisenhower did not go to Westminster Hall with the American delegation because he is a private guest of the Churchill family.

At the other end of London, the Duke of Norfolk directed a final rehearsal at St. Paul's Cathedral for Sir Winston's funeral Saturday.

The Duke, Britain's Earl Marshal in charge of arrangements for the state funeral, said: "I think it has gone well."

The line of mourners moved silently through Westminster Hall. Many paused for a few moments beside the catafalque.

Early in the day the number of mourners reached 200,000.

Geologist to Speak At Bloomfield

According to Bagby, 104 or more irrigation wells were put down in the county in 1964. Other people as well as farmers have questions about water. Is the supply adequate? Will it remain adequate? Are the losses great? Fuller will answer such questions and have information on geological formations and history of Southeast Missouri.

Hope to End Dock Strike This Week

NEW YORK (AP) -- Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says he expects the Maine-to-Texas dock strike to be settled in time for the 60,000 longshoremen to be back on the job by the first of next week.

He declines to reveal -- "at this time" -- the basis of his optimism about ending the 19-day-old tieup.

Wirtz, who made the statement at a news conference Thursday night, was asked about presidential intervention. He said that he could not speak for President Johnson, but added that he expected no compulsory arbitration move or federal dock seizure.

Some sources report Johnson is seeking to end the strike.

Wirtz said an appeal to the President by the maritime industry employers in the Port of New York "merits consideration."

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Marvin Watson, a Texas friend of President Johnson, will join the White House staff as a special assistant.

Long Distance Calls will be Cheaper Soon

NEW YORK (AP) -- Long distance telephone calls on evenings and weekends will be cheaper starting Monday.

The reduced rates will be effective for six week days at 8 p.m. at the originating point, rather than the present 9 p.m. They will apply all day Sunday.

Reduced rates higher than the after-8 tariffs will apply to Saturday calls and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays.

Want Ideas on How to Make Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON AP -- A somewhat nonplussed Congress waited today for ideas on how it could demonstrate that it would cut taxes quickly to head off any threatened recession.

President Johnson asked the legislators in his economic report Thursday to make such a showing as a contribution to confidence -- while at the same time he said all signs pointed to a fifth prosperous year ahead.

Another presidential request, to free more gold for defense of the dollar in international markets, will get earlier action.

Both House and Senate banking committees set early hearings on legislation to remove the requirement that gold be held to back up 25 per cent of the bank deposits in the Federal Reserve System. House hearings will begin Monday, Senate hearings Tuesday.

Committee to Investigate Air Academy

GOVERNOR WARREN E. HEARNES is shown presenting the signed 1965 "Heart Month" proclamation to M. Graham Clark, LL.D. (President of the School of the Ozarks), State Heart Fund Chairman for the Missouri Heart Association and board member of the American Heart Association and the Missouri Heart Association.

The proclamation officially designates February as "Heart Fund" month in Missouri . . . encouraging support by all Missourians in the battle against the No. 1 killer and most serious health problem of the 20th century.

The high point of the month's campaign is the "Heart Sunday" door-to-door collection on February 21.

Governor Hearnes stated that his designation of February as "Heart Month" represents his first signed proclamation.

Thus Far 65 Have Resigned

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — A five-man committee picked by Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert will review all policies of the Air Force Academy in the wake of a classroom cheating scandal that caused 65 cadet resignations.

More resignations are expected as investigators continue questioning cadets — perhaps as many as 700. Under the academy's honor code any cadet who knew about the cheating and did not report it is subject to dismissal.

Zuckert announced in Washington Thursday he had appointed Gen. Thomas D. White, former Air Force chief of staff, to head the committee and "review fundamental programs of the Air Force Academy."

Serving with him are Dean Hardy Dillard, law professor at the University of Virginia; Dr. Robert L. Stearns, former president of the University of Colorado; Charles B. Thornton, president of Litton Industries, and Lt. Gen. Joseph J. Nazzaro, vice commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command.

Zuckert said the committee will seek the basic causes for the honor code violations.

Academy sources said resignations may total 300 before the investigation ends, probably around Feb. 10. The student enrollment was 2,567 on Jan. 15, just before the first announcement of the investigation. Zucker said last week more than 100 cadets, including 30 varsity football players, were implicated.

The investigation has shown that a cadet stole a key to a locker containing examination questions and then enlisted the help of 10 or 12 other cadets to sell them. Academy officers said most of those quitting have resigned for failure to report their knowledge of the affair.

The honor code requires the enrolling cadet to pledge not to "lie, steal or cheat, and must not tolerate anyone who does."

Veteran Mail Carrier Ends Long Service

LILBOURN-- For 40 years Charles Shelby carried the mail on Lilbourn Route 1 so, Thursday night, some 150 of his route patrons and local residents gathered at the high school cafeteria for a surprise party to the retiring veteran mailman.

Before taking the job as a rural mail carrier, Mr. Shelby taught school in New Madrid county, for six years.

Mr. Shelby was in the first class to graduate from the Lilbourn high school; has been president of the Kiwanis Club and, also, president of the now non-existent Lions Club; an active member of the Methodist Church; he is also an honorary fireman and active in Boy Scout work.

In reminiscing he recalled that when he started to carry the mail he got $88 a month; he has worn out 15 new cars and seven used cars, and one winter, made part of his mail route by motor boat.

The biggest change he has observed on his route, he remarked, is the smaller amount of money orders written by the carrier. At one time money orders averaged from 70 to 80 a day but of recent years, only two or three. People, he said, just aren't buying so much from catalogs as they used to.

In his earlier days as a mail carrier he doubled as a grocery delivery man; brought medicine and performed many other chores for the folks along his route.

An ardent fisherman, he has a cabin on Kentucky Lake and plans to do a lot of fishing in his free time.

As a token of appreciation, his friends presented him with a going-away gift-you guessed it -- a complete fishing tackle outfit.

Prompt Action Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opens debate today on the $1.09-billion Appalachia aid bill and hopes to take a final vote on it Monday.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield had to abandon plans for action on the measure Thursday after the Senate had taken hours longer than expected to complete work on a water pollution control measure.

The two chief sponsors of the Appalachia bill, Sens. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., and John S. Cooper, R-Ky., planned to make their speeches on it today.

They said action might come today on some amendments but that key votes would be Monday.

An alternative bill introduced Thursday by Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Public Works Committee, would authorize the President to set up regional commissions to work up development programs for other areas similar to that contained in the Appalachia bill.

Randolph, No. 2 Democrat on the Public Works Committee, said assurances would be given that the committee would go to work promptly on this bill. He said that he believed, with these pledges, amendments seeking to add aid for the Upper Great Lakes region, for the Ozarks and for some other regions would not be attached to the Appalachia bill.

The Appalachia legislation would provide federal funds to build highways and inaugurate a variety of other projects for areas of an 11-state region which has been economically depressed for many years.

All of West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Virginia would be covered by the aid program.

The water-pollution bill, first major administration-endorsed measure to clear the Senate this year, was passed Thursday by a 68-8 vote and sent to the House after six hours of Debate.

It would authorize larger federal grants to help cities build sewage-treatment plants, establish an $80-million research program on better methods of handling sewage, and beef up government procedures for enforcing antipollution measures.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fast congressional action appears certain on a constitutional amendment urged by President Johnson to deal with the problems of presidential disability and vice-presidential vacancies.

District Engineer Points Out Economic Value to the Area of Highway System

"Let us consider the construction work in progress. The contract amount of work let last year totalled more than $11 million, with practically the entire amount being contracted on Interstate Route 55. Of this amount Sikeston has received a good portion in payrolls, materials and other products required for construction.

"As of Dec. 31, 1964, there were 185 employees of the Department, who are located in this area, with a monthly income of $73,269, or an annual payroll of $88,000.

"Our Maintenance and Traffic divisions operate a large portion of their crews from this area, and a considerable amount of material is purchased from local firms. A large portion of our vehicles and equipment is stationed in this vicinity.

"In 1964 our Equipment Division purchased repair parts amounting to $46,123 from firms in Sikeston. Fuel for vehicles and equipment is let to local supplies to furnish our needs. Fuel purchased in Sikeston last year was 106,000 gal. gasoline, 5,000 gal. diesel fuel, 2,500 gal, kerosene and 7,400 quarts oil. I am pointing these figures to show you the impact the Division has on the economy here.

"Even though the construction of the Interstate Routes is nearly completed in this vicinity, this work is continuing on the system. Just recently we were able to open 14 miles of Interstate Route 55 from Route 60 and Interstate Route 57 north to Route 77 east of Benton. If work progresses as planned by the contractors, we expect to open 31 miles more on Interstate Route 55 in 1965. This will include the portion from Route 77 north to Scott City, and from Interstate Route 57 and Route 60 south to New Madrid.

"It is anticipated that during 1965 we will let construction contracts amounting to $14,-600,000 in this District, and would include 17.5 miles of work on Interstate 55 from New Madrid to Portageville and Hayti. Along with the Interstate construction, Sikeston has a never-ending benefit due to its location near Interstates 55 and 57. I am sure you are aware of the power of advertising, and many of you have noticed the large green colored signs. The name SIKESTON appears on many of these signs and when you figure space, it amounts to more than 3,100 square feet of advertising. As the construction of the Interstate system progresses and more routes opened to traffic, this city will be called to the attention of motorists by these signs.

"To summarize the status of the Interstate System in District 10, I will call to your attention that Interstate 55, which begins at the Perry county line and continues south to the

LBJ Taking it Easy But Also Keeping Busy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson still is battling remnants of a cold while getting ready to swing back into full stride of official duties.

The President has been taking it fairly easy — easy for him, that is — mixing rest with work.

He still has a bit of cough but no temperature, aides said, and until Thursday afternoon was reported "taking life very easy."

He took it easy Thursday by doing such things as sending a message to Congress urging it to get busy and do something about (1) the problems of possible presidential disability, (2) filling the vacancy when there is no vice president and (3) changing the electoral system to abolish the electoral college but not electoral votes in the states and provide for the situation that could arise if the president-elect, the vice president-elect, or both, died before taking office.

In addition he: Sent his annual economic report to Capitol Hill.

Nominated acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to be attorney general and Ramsey Clark to be deputy attorney general.

Finally persuaded W. Marvin Watson, Texas state Democratic chairman and steel company official, to take a White House job as a $28,500 a year special assistant to the President.

Filled some diplomatic posts by appointing, among others, Angier Biddle Duke, the State Department's former protocol chief, to be ambassador to Spain.

Let it be known that seven or eight more similar appointments will be coming along in the next week or two.

For today, there were no appointments on the Johnson schedule. But that didn't mean no work — there were no appointments on Thursday's schedule, either.

Two persons were treated and dismissed from the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Thursday.

Scouts Will Make Fitness Hike Feb. 13

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, will be in Sikeston, Saturday noon, Feb. 13 to talk to some 200 Boy Scouts, it was announced today by Eddie R. Schrader, public relations chairman for Okeechobee District.

The occasion will be the completion of the annual fitness hike staged to emphasize Scout Week.

All 22 Boy Scout Troops of the district are being urged to participate and the hike, this year, will be styled the "American Heritage Fitness Hike."

According to Mr. Schrader the Scouts will assemble at the Holiday Ina between 7:30 and 8 a.m. to sign in. The Scouts then will be assigned into three equal groups and taken in cars to points 10 miles out of town - east, south and west. Then they will begin their long walk back to the Holiday Inn where they are expected to arrive about noon.

A plaque will be presented by Col. Waggoner to the troop completing the hike in the best time and streamers will be given to each troop represented on the hike.

There will, of course, be refreshments and Col. Waggoner will make a short talk in commendation of the Scouts for their achievements.

Geologist to Speak At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- The Stoddard County Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors announced they will try to have Dale L. Fuller, senior geologist, Missouri Geological Survey and Water Resources as the speaker for the annual meeting to be held in Bloomfield Feb. 15.

Dirl Bagby, chairman of the Board, said, "Since all of us in Stoddard County are interested in water we thought Mr. Fuller would be the logical man to get for our program."

According to Bagby, 104 or more irrigation wells were put down in the county in 1964. Other people as well as farmers have questions about water. Is the supply adequate? Will it remain adequate? Are the losses great? Fuller will answer such questions and have information on geological formations and history of Southeast Missouri.

Hope to End Dock Strike This Week

NEW YORK (AP) -- Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says he expects the Maine-to-Texas dock strike to be settled in time for the 60,000 longshoremen to be back on the job by the first of next week.

He declines to reveal -- "at this time" -- the basis of his optimism about ending the 19-day-old tieup.

Wirtz, who made the statement at a news conference Thursday night, was asked about presidential intervention. He said that he could not speak for President Johnson, but added that he expected no compulsory arbitration move or federal dock seizure.

Some sources report Johnson is seeking to end the strike.

Wirtz said an appeal to the President by the maritime industry employers in the Port of New York "merits consideration."

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Marvin Watson, a Texas friend of President Johnson, will join the White House staff as a special assistant.

Long Distance Calls will be Cheaper Soon

NEW YORK (AP) -- Long distance telephone calls on evenings and weekends will be cheaper starting Monday.

Under a Federal Communications Commission order issued Nov. 25, the $1 maximum station - to - station long distance rate inaugurated in 1963 will be extended.

The charge applies to the first three minutes.

The reduced rates will be effective for six week days at 8 p.m. at the originating point, rather than the present 9 p.m. They will apply all day Sunday.

Reduced rates higher than the after-8 tariffs will apply to Saturday calls and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays.

Want Ideas on How to Make Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON AP -- A somewhat nonplussed Congress waited today for ideas on how it could demonstrate that it would cut taxes quickly to head off any threatened recession.

President Johnson asked the legislators in his economic report Thursday to make such a showing as a contribution to confidence -- while at the same time he said all signs pointed to a fifth prosperous year ahead.

Another presidential request, to free more gold for defense of the dollar in international markets, will get earlier action.

Both House and Senate banking committees set early hearings on legislation to remove the requirement that gold be held to back up 25 per cent of the bank deposits in the Federal Reserve System. House hearings will begin Monday, Senate hearings Tuesday.

U.S. Delegates Pay Tribute To Churchill

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. delegation to Sir Winston Churchill's funeral paid him homage today at Westminster Hall.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk led the Americans. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was expected to visit the bier late in the afternoon.

The American delegation stood in silence for five minutes before the flag-draped coffin.

In addition to Rusk, the American mourners included:

W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador in London and Moscow and a friend of Churchill's; Chief Justice Earl Warren who some reporters mistook for Eisenhower, and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

An official at the U.S. Embassy said Eisenhower did not go to Westminster Hall with the American delegation because he is a private guest of the Churchill family.

At the other end of London, the Duke of Norfolk directed a final rehearsal at St. Paul's Cathedral for Sir Winston's funeral Saturday.

The Duke, Britain's Earl Marshal in charge of arrangements for the state funeral, said: "I think it has gone well."

The line of mourners moved silently through Westminster Hall. Many paused for a few moments beside the catafalque.

Early in the day the number of mourners reached 200,000.

DRINKING AGE DILEMMA

GOV. RICHARD J. HUGHES of New Jersey is trying to arrange a conference with the governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont to get New York's liquor law changed. In New York and only one other state -- Louisiana -- are youngsters allowed to buy liquor or be served at taverns at the age of 18. For a number of years law authorities in New York's five perimetric states and New Hampshire have been concerned over the increasing number of teenagers who cross over into the Empire State to drink.

More than morals is involved. The youngsters -- often plastered -- drive back to their home states not only to their own peril but also to that of sober and older motorists.

Gov. Hughes and officials in the other peripheral states -- all of which require that their young wait until age 21 before they tackle hard liquor -- have been exerting pressure on New York to jack up its drinking age. Hughes now is seeking the aid of civic, fraternal, and religious groups. The N. Y. Times comments: "His crusade is more in the interest of this state than it is of his own. The age limit should be raised from 18 to 21 -- the reform most needed and wholly ignored at last year's special legislative session on liquor law revisions."

THE TROUBLES in Darien, Conn. this summer and autumn have reminded people generally that there are two sides to the teen-age drinking dilemma. Permissive parents ask with a good deal of realism whether you would deprive scores of thousands of servicemen, half of all college students -- and all debutantes -- of a drink just because they are under 21.

Now comes some professional support for this argument. Three sociologists at Washington University in St. Louis report in the current issue of Crime and Delinquency that teen-agers generally find it incongruous that they are prohibited from buying alcohol at ages when they can drive, marry without consent of their parents, face adult penalties for crimes, and enlist in the military. Vast numbers of minors drink not especially for kicks, according to the report, but because they associate drinking with these adult roles. Moreover, sumptuary laws aimed at minors often lack parental support.

The N. Y. Herald Tribune observed during the Darien controversy that residents of Connecticut probably would continue to ignore the liquor law just as they do that state's birth control law. "And," the editorial went on, "with their pre-dinner cocktails, Connecticut hosts can serve up a fresh lesson in how to live happily though hypocritically."

OPPONENTS of permissiveness ask if young people are allowed to experiment with drinking at home, why not sex -- or narcotic drugs? Both questions of course are emotionally freighted. In these days of early marriage a good many fathers cannot legally buy a drink. And it is to be assumed that most young people without strong moral or religious scruples against the use of alcohol will eventually take a drink, but the assumption that the same young people will turn to dope is patently false.

The dilemma really is ageless: How much should behavior be controlled by law and how much by conscience or good judgment? Short of absolute prohibition it becomes a question of difficult definitions and standards. Realism constantly argues with caution, with wisdom always in the balance.

THE MEDICAL CARE DOLLAR

A short time ago the American Medical Association released the results of a three and a half year study of the cost of medical care. This is a monumental and authoritative work running 513 pages and touching on every relevant facet of the matter. It is true that medical care costs more than it did 25 years ago, as does almost everything else. It is also true that medical care prices have increased slightly more than the general price level -- though, it is interesting to note, physician fees have increased somewhat less. Beyond the statistics, however, is a much more important question: Is medical care worth what it costs?

The chairman of the 13-man AMA commission which made the study says this: "People want, or need, and are receiving more medical attention, an increasing amount of which is financed by private health insurance and prepayment plans. As a result of improved medical care, and improved standards of living, the death rate has declined, life expectancy for the population as a whole has approached the biblical 'three-score years and ten,' hospital stay has been shortened, and certain diseases virtually eliminated."

Another point must be stressed -- that a true price change occurs only if the unit priced is of the same quality and quantity. The slight increase in overall medical care costs has been accompanied by greatly improved medical care standards and that is something that a price index cannot accurately reflect.

It is also believed that the study will serve as a springboard for recommendations to encourage the wisest use of the health care dollar. The undeviating purpose is to make that dollar bring peak return in longevity and in the physical and mental well-being of us all.

HATBOX ON WHEELS ROAMS MD. HALLS

Visitors at Johns Hopkins University's applied - physics laboratory in Baltimore had better look lively, the Catholic Digest warns. A robot roams the halls there.

The robot, which weighs 100 lbs., looks like a huge hatbox on wheels, and it has a computer brain.

When its 12 silver cadmium batteries start to run down, it feels its way along a corridor until it finds an electrical outlet. Microswitch fingers on the ends of its arms can sense the contours of a regular electric socket.

When contact is made, the robot inserts two prongs into the outlet and recharges the barreries. Then it pulls out the prongs and moves on.

The machine steers itself with its arm and its microswitches built into a wrap-around bumper. It feels it way along corridors cluttered with soft-drink machines, stair wells, office doors, and people.

FOREIGN AID, AGAIN

If yours is the average American family, foreign aid has cost you more than $1,500 since it began. Our nation has yielded more than $500 per capita in taxes to improve defense, further industrial development or alleviate poverty in scores of other countries since such programs first began.

Everyone has a stake in such programs, and a large one. And everyone should be cheered with recent developments in the foreign aid pictures.

The President has asked less than any President has in years to carry on the program. He asked more than Congress appropriated last time, of course. But the temper of Congress gives cause for hope that the President's figure will be proportionately reduced and finally signal a decline in this burden.

That foreign aid can work has been demonstrated by the Marshall plan in Europe, long since ended. Now it is reported that the Republic of China, long a recipient of our aid, is strong enough to go it alone.

These silver linings can become even brighter if Congress this year will intensify its study of the possible reductions. Some in Congress are prepared to challenge our aid to Communist countries, especially since even the ones supposedly most friendly to the West still show a disturbing tendency to arrest our citizens, and pitch bricks through our embassy windows in officially - sanctioned and well-ordered riots.

Others in Congress (usually another group) are reluctant to vote more money for right-wing dictatorships scattered thinly around the world.

Still others (and some of those already mentioned) are loath to send money to nations which expropriate property of U. S. citizens and violate international rights.

And there's even a chance that support can be found for reducing the aid to friendly, well - behaved nations to amounts and kinds that will really further their interests while confining all our aid to amounts and kinds that will serve our own national purposes.

SOCIALIST DISASTER IN BRITAIN

When fundamentals are frail fate may be fickle.

If a nation and its people do not value freedom highly enough, freedom will be lost. If the peril of socialism is not fully understood, disaster may be in the making.

On October 15, 1964, Britain was prosperous and happy, with only the weak spots of socialism and the Profumo scandal. But warnings of what would happen if socialism took over went unheeded.

The Conservative Party with its poor title, lost the election and control of Parliament by a scant margin. Instead of being disposed to caution by their narrow Parliamentary majority and the fact they had only a plurality of the total vote, the winning Party leaders plunged headlong toward outright socialism.

Taxes were increased, trade cut off, confidence in the economy collapsed and the monetary system staggered. Stability of the pound sterling was threatened as never before since the grim aftermath of World War II.

Nations, including the United States which could ill afford the sacrifice, poured three billion dollars into a fund to stabilize the pound. But the real danger to the pound was not lack of financial backing, but a well-justified fear of socialism.

No one considered the advisability of halting the ravages of socialism. So now half of the three billion is gone. Optimists who have said "There will always be an England", now helplessly wonder.

Tinkering with the currency has failed to help England, just as it has failed everywhere.

NEW YORK (AP)--All school dropouts have the same problem--finding a job suited to their ability.

Rex Harrison is one dropout who seems to have solved the problem satisfactorily. Forty years after he quit the halls of learning at 16 to join a Liverpool reperiory company, his services in a play or film now command a small fortune--or a large one.

At 56, happily married to British actress Rachel Roberts and practically certain of an Academy Award nomination for his performance in "My Fair Lady," Rex is riding on cloud No. 9.

"I enjoy life--get a great kick out of it," he remarked.

It is a pleasure to see an Englishman enjoy himself, particularly in this generation. And when Harrison enjoys himself, he lets go all the way. He chuckles, removes his horn-rimmed glasses, then throws his head back and roars in laughter like a schoolboy.

The lanky actor has become almost a living synonym for urbane charm and debonair sophistication.

This amuses him, for he is more sure of what sophistication isn't than what it is.

"I've found the real sophisticates generally live in the most simple manner. They find that life more satisfactory," he said.

"Sophistication is a misnomer. It sounds like you are always drinking champagne poured by servants. I'm not that way at all. I usually draw my own cork.

"Rachel and I live quite simply in our villa at Portfino on the Italian Riviera. We have a caretaker and a gardener, but my wife does a lot of the cooking.

"I never put on a tie there. There's no reason to. Nobody else does. It's very, very comfortable and completely casual. I haven't really liked night clubs for years and years. Actually I couldn't say whether I'm sophisticated or not."

"My philosophy? It's quite simple: Live for the moment--tomorrow is for dying."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — No two men were more at odds during the war than Charles De Gaulle and Winston Churchill. De Gaulle had been brought to England by Churchill during the last hours before the Nazis closed in on France, and there were times when the stubborn Englishman wished that he had left the stubborn Frenchman sitting on the pier in Bordeaux.

Churchill not only agreed with Secretary of State Cordell Hull when he referred to De Gaulle's "so-called" Free French, but was indignant with De Gaulle when, at Casablanca, Roosevelt and Churchill tried to persuade De Gaulle to have his photo taken with Gen. Henri Giraud, of the French in North Africa. Despite pressure from both FDR and Churchill, De Gaulle refused.

It was after this that Churchill, referring to the symbol of the Free French, remarked, "The Cross of Lorraine is the hardest cross I have to bear."

Despite this background of antagonism, President De Gaulle issued one of the most moving tributes to the man who once ridiculed him — Winston Churchill.

--LBJ AND DE GAULLE--

In Washington during recent months, relations have been improving between the United States and De Gaulle. This results, in part, from the patient policy of President Johnson.

"Some of the state Department boys want me to issue statements answering President De Gaulle," Johnson told a friend the other day. "But I just lean back from the plate and let those fast balls go by."

Diplomatic insiders say this better atmosphere between Washington and Paris should make possible a conference between De Gaulle and Johnson. The President of the United States has a lot of admiration for the president of France, recognizes that he has done great things for his country.

So LBJ, a patient and persuasive negotiator, would like to sit down with President De Gaulle on some early occasion and see if they can't revive the 180 years of friendship between the United States and France.

--HHH'S OFFICE--

Vice President Humphrey has been given a joshing runaround by his old Senate colleagues over the fact that he can't find a choice working office on Capitol Hill. However, he has a real working office about 100 feet from LBJ's in the executive office building and is proud of it.

His pride results from the fact that the office was once occupied by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt in World War I. And Hubert has dug up one of the last portraits painted of Roosevelt in 1945, shortly before FDR died, to hang on his wall.

"Muriel helped me fix the place up," he says with pride. "She picked these curtains and had 'em put some covers over those old-fashioned radiators. I picked out this beige carpet — a color that won't show the tracks."

The Vice President is being kept busy trucking back and forth between the Senate and the White House, and he's actually getting over his old habit of being late.

Note — The knobs on Humphrey's door are worth $250 each. They carry the Navy seal on one side of the door, the Army seal on the other, emblems of the fact that the Executive Office used to house the State, War, and Navy departments — all under the same roof. Today the Defense Department occupies the Pentagon, one of the largest office buildings in the world, while the State Department has moved into a huge new building covering two blocks.

--REV. KING'S ASSAILANT--

Jimmy George Robinson, the man who poked Rev. Martin Luther King the other day at Selma, Ala., is not a Birmingham boy as he told the newspapers, but a Texan who has been operating a bicycle shop on Route 67 outside Garland, Tex., where he has gained local notoriety as a right-wing rabble rouser.

A year ago, he was arrested for planting a flaming cross on the lawn of Jack Oran of Richardson, Tex., who had spoken to Kiwanis and Rotary groups on the similarities between American right-wingers and the German Nazis.

Robinson was fined $25 for violating a fire ordinance.

--"CLASSIFIED" MAPS--

Movie maker Goerge Seaton needed a 1944 battle map of France for his World War II spy thriller, "36 Hours," but both the French embassy and the Pentagon solemnly insisted that the old maps were "classified."

Seaton turned for help to Sen. Tom Kuchel, R—Calif., who also got nowhere until he threatened to call the Russian embassy for the maps. Then the Pentagon reluctantly produced them.

--GOP BATTLE SCARS--

The wheeling and dealing prior to the election of Reps. Gerald Ford (Mich.) as floor leader and Les Arends (Ill.) as whip, has left scars on the Republican party.

One of the rewards which both Ford and Arends dangled before newly elected GOP House members was a place on top-ranking committees, and those who were passed over are now blazing mad.

Arends was talking about these injured feelings to a man who voted against him, Rep. Frank Horton, R—N.Y. Turning his back on Horton, Arends said:

"Do you see any knives sticking out of me?"

"No," replied Horton, who wanted a place on the Interstate Commerce Committee and didn't get it. "However, there are a few sticking out of me."

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

At the airport they found the family plane, The Wayfarer, an F-27. On the flight to Albany they were accompanied by Mr. Rockefeller's modest, soft-selling labor adviser, Victor Borella, executive vice president of Rockefeller Center.

On the return trip the Governor joined the travelers. About 6 p.m., somewhere high in the sky hurtling towards New York City, Mr. Van Arsdale after discussing the waywardness and muck of politics suddenly asked Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller:

"Why, with all your wealth, don't you give all this up and take it easy?

"Why do you submit yourself to this type of thing? Why fight —fight the legislators, the politicians and all the pressure groups?"

The Governor replied quickly:

"Because I love it, I love this business of politics, this way of life."

Somewhere in the conversations of the day he had become philosophical about political fortunes.

"You just can't tell about these things. Dick Nixon came East and I went West, and it did not do either of us any good."

But there was no doubt among his listeners that he was preparing eventually to go west again. Gov. Rockefeller, though surrounded by his cabinet at the luncheon, had done most of the talking.

He spoke of the future — as far off as 1972. He outlined plans which would keep him absorbed for years. To such labor leaders as Van Arsdale, Coughlin and O'Rourke he seemed to be out "Democratic-ing the Democrats."

He spoke of spending over a billion dollars to fight air pollution; of disbursing well over a billion and seven hundred million dollars on heavy construction; of heavy outlays for education and at least half a billion for actual building of schools.

The Governor estimated that this would create over 120,000 jobs in the next five years. This pleased the labor leaders. Johnny O'Rourke has 165,000 teamsters to worry about.

Rockefeller Launches Long-Range Drive for GOP Presidential Nomination.

NEW YORK — Some political observers will mark a spaghetti and meatballs luncheon in the state capital's executive mansion on Monday, Jan. 25, as the moment and the day Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller made his first move in the drive for re-election in 1966 and for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968.

That afternoon Mr. Rockefeller broke bread with some of his toughest political opponents — several labor leaders who had thrown everything their movements had into the fight to defeat him and his party.

But Monday they had been his guests in grand style fit only for men being wooed because of their influence, prestige and the strength of their followers in the state's precincts.

In the luncheon group were the tireless Harry Van Arsdale, leader of the million-member New York City Central Labor Council; Howard Coughlin, swiftly becoming a national symbol of white collar unionism, who heads the Office Employes International union and regional Teamsters national vice president Johnny O'Rourke, one of Rockefeller's most consistent and hard-hitting critics.

The previous Friday they, along with four or five others, had received the following telegram:

"Would it be possible for you to join me at a luncheon at the Executive Mansion in Albany on Monday, Jan. 25, at 12 noon to review New York State legislative and fiscal matters. To facilitate your travel I will have a plane at Butler Marine Terminal at 11 a.m. Monday to take you to Albany and to return you to New York after luncheon. My office will be in touch with you by phone today. With best wishes, Nelson A. Rockefeller."

Howard Coughlin, easily one of the country's leading authorities on office automation is concerned with maintaining white collar employment. And Van Arsdale still plans to uncork a drive for a four-hour day to take up the slack in construction jobs.

It would have been easy for Nelson Rockefeller to bypass the state's labor chiefs. They had fought him. They hardly expected to be consulted. They did not expect to be ferried by private plane.

They went up as Democrats. They did not return as Republicans. But the Governor had eased a political strain. This may be a minor point for the moment. However, points add up in the political Olympics in which the grand prize is the White House.

DRINKING AGE DILEMMA

GOV. RICHARD J. HUGHES of New Jersey is trying to arrange a conference with the governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont to get New York's liquor law changed. In New York and only one other state -- Louisiana -- are youngsters allowed to buy liquor or be served at taverns at the age of 18. For a number of years law authorities in New York's five perimetric states and New Hampshire have been concerned over the increasing number of teenagers who cross over into the Empire State to drink.

More than morals is involved. The youngsters -- often plastered -- drive back to their home states not only to their own peril but also to that of sober and older motorists.

Gov. Hughes and officials in the other peripheral states -- all of which require that their young wait until age 21 before they tackle hard liquor -- have been exerting pressure on New York to jack up its drinking age. Hughes now is seeking the aid of civic, fraternal, and religious groups. The N. Y. Times comments: "His crusade is more in the interest of this state than it is of his own. The age limit should be raised from 18 to 21 -- the reform most needed and wholly ignored at last year's special legislative session on liquor law revisions."

THE TROUBLES in Darien, Conn. this summer and autumn have reminded people generally that there are two sides to the teen-age drinking dilemma. Permissive parents ask with a good deal of realism whether you would deprive scores of thousands of servicemen, half of all college students -- and all debutantes -- of a drink just because they are under 21.

Now comes some professional support for this argument. Three sociologists at Washington University in St. Louis report in the current issue of Crime and Delinquency that teen-agers generally find it incongruous that they are prohibited from buying alcohol at ages when they can drive, marry without consent of their parents, face adult penalties for crimes, and enlist in the military. Vast numbers of minors drink not especially for kicks, according to the report, but because they associate drinking with these adult roles. Moreover, sumptuary laws aimed at minors often lack parental support.

The N. Y. Herald Tribune observed during the Darien controversy that residents of Connecticut probably would continue to ignore the liquor law just as they do that state's birth control law. "And," the editorial went on, "with their pre-dinner cocktails, Connecticut hosts can serve up a fresh lesson in how to live happily though hypocritically."

OPPONENTS of permissiveness ask if young people are allowed to experiment with drinking at home, why not sex -- or narcotic drugs? Both questions of course are emotionally freighted. In these days of early marriage a good many fathers cannot legally buy a drink. And it is to be assumed that most young people without strong moral or religious scruples against the use of alcohol will eventually take a drink, but the assumption that the same young people will turn to dope is patently false.

The dilemma really is ageless: How much should behavior be controlled by law and how much by conscience or good judgment? Short of absolute prohibition it becomes a question of difficult definitions and standards. Realism constantly argues with caution, with wisdom always in the balance.

THE MEDICAL CARE DOLLAR

A short time ago the American Medical Association released the results of a three and a half year study of the cost of medical care. This is a monumental and authoritative work running 513 pages and touching on every relevant facet of the matter. It is true that medical care costs more than it did 25 years ago, as does almost everything else. It is also true that medical care prices have increased slightly more than the general price level -- though, it is interesting to note, physician fees have increased somewhat less. Beyond the statistics, however, is a much more important question: Is medical care worth what it costs?

The chairman of the 13-man AMA commission which made the study says this: "People want, or need, and are receiving more medical attention, an increasing amount of which is financed by private health insurance and prepayment plans. As a result of improved medical care, and improved standards of living, the death rate has declined, life expectancy for the population as a whole has approached the biblical 'three-score years and ten,' hospital stay has been shortened, and certain diseases virtually eliminated."

Another point must be stressed -- that a true price change occurs only if the unit priced is of the same quality and quantity. The slight increase in overall medical care costs has been accompanied by greatly improved medical care standards and that is something that a price index cannot accurately reflect.

It is also believed that the study will serve as a springboard for recommendations to encourage the wisest use of the health care dollar. The undeviating purpose is to make that dollar bring peak return in longevity and in the physical and mental well-being of us all.

HATBOX ON WHEELS ROAMS MD. HALLS

Visitors at Johns Hopkins University's applied - physics laboratory in Baltimore had better look lively, the Catholic Digest warns. A robot roams the halls there.

The robot, which weighs 100 lbs., looks like a huge hatbox on wheels, and it has a computer brain.

When its 12 silver cadmium batteries start to run down, it feels its way along a corridor until it finds an electrical outlet. Microswitch fingers on the ends of its arms can sense the contours of a regular electric socket.

When contact is made, the robot inserts two prongs into the outlet and recharges the barreries. Then it pulls out the prongs and moves on.

The machine steers itself with its arm and its microswitches built into a wrap-around bumper. It feels it way along corridors cluttered with soft-drink machines, stair wells, office doors, and people.

FOREIGN AID, AGAIN

If yours is the average American family, foreign aid has cost you more than $1,500 since it began. Our nation has yielded more than $500 per capita in taxes to improve defense, further industrial development or alleviate poverty in scores of other countries since such programs first began.

Everyone has a stake in such programs, and a large one. And everyone should be cheered with recent developments in the foreign aid pictures.

The President has asked less than any President has in years to carry on the program. He asked more than Congress appropriated last time, of course. But the temper of Congress gives cause for hope that the President's figure will be proportionately reduced and finally signal a decline in this burden.

That foreign aid can work has been demonstrated by the Marshall plan in Europe, long since ended. Now it is reported that the Republic of China, long a recipient of our aid, is strong enough to go it alone.

These silver linings can become even brighter if Congress this year will intensify its study of the possible reductions. Some in Congress are prepared to challenge our aid to Communist countries, especially since even the ones supposedly most friendly to the West still show a disturbing tendency to arrest our citizens, and pitch bricks through our embassy windows in officially - sanctioned and well-ordered riots.

Others in Congress (usually another group) are reluctant to vote more money for right-wing dictatorships scattered thinly around the world.

Still others (and some of those already mentioned) are loath to send money to nations which expropriate property of U. S. citizens and violate international rights.

And there's even a chance that support can be found for reducing the aid to friendly, well - behaved nations to amounts and kinds that will really further their interests while confining all our aid to amounts and kinds that will serve our own national purposes.

SOCIALIST DISASTER IN BRITAIN

When fundamentals are frail fate may be fickle.

If a nation and its people do not value freedom highly enough, freedom will be lost. If the peril of socialism is not fully understood, disaster may be in the making.

On October 15, 1964, Britain was prosperous and happy, with only the weak spots of socialism and the Profumo scandal. But warnings of what would happen if socialism took over went unheeded.

The Conservative Party with its poor title, lost the election and control of Parliament by a scant margin. Instead of being disposed to caution by their narrow Parliamentary majority and the fact they had only a plurality of the total vote, the winning Party leaders plunged headlong toward outright socialism.

Taxes were increased, trade cut off, confidence in the economy collapsed and the monetary system staggered. Stability of the pound sterling was threatened as never before since the grim aftermath of World War II.

Nations, including the United States which could ill afford the sacrifice, poured three billion dollars into a fund to stabilize the pound. But the real danger to the pound was not lack of financial backing, but a well-justified fear of socialism.

No one considered the advisability of halting the ravages of socialism. So now half of the three billion is gone. Optimists who have said "There will always be an England", now helplessly wonder.

Tinkering with the currency has failed to help England, just as it has failed everywhere.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — No two men were more at odds during the war than Charles De Gaulle and Winston Churchill. De Gaulle had been brought to England by Churchill during the last hours before the Nazis closed in on France, and there were times when the stubborn Englishman wished that he had left the stubborn Frenchman sitting on the pier in Bordeaux.

Churchill not only agreed with Secretary of State Cordell Hull when he referred to De Gaulle's "so-called" Free French, but was indignant with De Gaulle when, at Casablanca, Roosevelt and Churchill tried to persuade De Gaulle to have his photo taken with Gen. Henri Giraud, of the French in North Africa. Despite pressure from both FDR and Churchill, De Gaulle refused.

It was after this that Churchill, referring to the symbol of the Free French, remarked, "The Cross of Lorraine is the hardest cross I have to bear."

Despite this background of antagonism, President De Gaulle issued one of the most moving tributes to the man who once ridiculed him — Winston Churchill.

Diplomatic insiders say this better atmosphere between Washington and Paris should make possible a conference between De Gaulle and Johnson. The President of the United States has a lot of admiration for the president of France, recognizes that he has done great things for his country.

So LBJ, a patient and persuasive negotiator, would like to sit down with President De Gaulle on some early occasion and see if they can't revive the 180 years of friendship between the United States and France.

--HHH'S OFFICE--

Vice President Humphrey has been given a joshing runaround by his old Senate colleagues over the fact that he can't find a choice working office on Capitol Hill. However, he has a real working office about 100 feet from LBJ's in the executive office building and is proud of it.

His pride results from the fact that the office was once occupied by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt in World War I. And Hubert has dug up one of the last portraits painted of Roosevelt in 1945, shortly before FDR died, to hang on his wall.

"Muriel helped me fix the place up," he says with pride. "She picked these curtains and had 'em put some covers over those old-fashioned radiators. I picked out this beige carpet — a color that won't show the tracks."

The Vice President is being kept busy trucking back and forth between the Senate and the White House, and he's actually getting over his old habit of being late.

Note — The knobs on Humphrey's door are worth $250 each. They carry the Navy seal on one side of the door, the Army seal on the other, emblems of the fact that the Executive Office used to house the State, War, and Navy departments — all under the same roof. Today the Defense Department occupies the Pentagon, one of the largest office buildings in the world, while the State Department has moved into a huge new building covering two blocks.

--REV. KING'S ASSAILANT--

Jimmy George Robinson, the man who poked Rev. Martin Luther King the other day at Selma, Ala., is not a Birmingham boy as he told the newspapers, but a Texan who has been operating a bicycle shop on Route 67 outside Garland, Tex., where he has gained local notoriety as a right-wing rabble rouser.

A year ago, he was arrested for planting a flaming cross on the lawn of Jack Oran of Richardson, Tex., who had spoken to Kiwanis and Rotary groups on the similarities between American right-wingers and the German Nazis.

Robinson was fined $25 for violating a fire ordinance.

--"CLASSIFIED" MAPS--

Movie maker Goerge Seaton needed a 1944 battle map of France for his World War II spy thriller, "36 Hours," but both the French embassy and the Pentagon solemnly insisted that the old maps were "classified."

Seaton turned for help to Sen. Tom Kuchel, R—Calif., who also got nowhere until he threatened to call the Russian embassy for the maps. Then the Pentagon reluctantly produced them.

--GOP BATTLE SCARS--

The wheeling and dealing prior to the election of Reps. Gerald Ford (Mich.) as floor leader and Les Arends (Ill.) as whip, has left scars on the Republican party.

One of the rewards which both Ford and Arends dangled before newly elected GOP House members was a place on top-ranking committees, and those who were passed over are now blazing mad.

Arends was talking about these injured feelings to a man who voted against him, Rep. Frank Horton, R—N.Y. Turning his back on Horton, Arends said:

"Do you see any knives sticking out of me?"

"No," replied Horton, who wanted a place on the Interstate Commerce Committee and didn't get it. "However, there are a few sticking out of me."

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

At the airport they found the family plane, The Wayfarer, an F-27. On the flight to Albany they were accompanied by Mr. Rockefeller's modest, soft-selling labor adviser, Victor Borella, executive vice president of Rockefeller Center.

On the return trip the Governor joined the travelers. About 6 p.m., somewhere high in the sky hurtling towards New York City, Mr. Van Arsdale after discussing the waywardness and muck of politics suddenly asked Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller:

"Why, with all your wealth, don't you give all this up and take it easy?

"Why do you submit yourself to this type of thing? Why fight —fight the legislators, the politicians and all the pressure groups?"

The Governor replied quickly:

"Because I love it, I love this business of politics, this way of life."

Somewhere in the conversations of the day he had become philosophical about political fortunes.

"You just can't tell about these things. Dick Nixon came East and I went West, and it did not do either of us any good."

But there was no doubt among his listeners that he was preparing eventually to go west again. Gov. Rockefeller, though surrounded by his cabinet at the luncheon, had done most of the talking.

He spoke of the future — as far off as 1972. He outlined plans which would keep him absorbed for years. To such labor leaders as Van Arsdale, Coughlin and O'Rourke he seemed to be out "Democratic-ing the Democrats."

He spoke of spending over a billion dollars to fight air pollution; of disbursing well over a billion and seven hundred million dollars on heavy construction; of heavy outlays for education and at least half a billion for actual building of schools.

The Governor estimated that this would create over 120,000 jobs in the next five years. This pleased the labor leaders. Johnny O'Rourke has 165,000 teamsters to worry about.

Rockefeller Launches Long-Range Drive for GOP Presidential Nomination.

NEW YORK — Some political observers will mark a spaghetti and meatballs luncheon in the state capital's executive mansion on Monday, Jan. 25, as the moment and the day Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller made his first move in the drive for re-election in 1966 and for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968.

That afternoon Mr. Rockefeller broke bread with some of his toughest political opponents — several labor leaders who had thrown everything their movements had into the fight to defeat him and his party.

But Monday they had been his guests in grand style fit only for men being wooed because of their influence, prestige and the strength of their followers in the state's precincts.

In the luncheon group were the tireless Harry Van Arsdale, leader of the million-member New York City Central Labor Council; Howard Coughlin, swiftly becoming a national symbol of white collar unionism, who heads the Office Employes International union and regional Teamsters national vice president Johnny O'Rourke, one of Rockefeller's most consistent and hard-hitting critics.

The previous Friday they, along with four or five others, had received the following telegram:

"Would it be possible for you to join me at a luncheon at the Executive Mansion in Albany on Monday, Jan. 25, at 12 noon to review New York State legislative and fiscal matters. To facilitate your travel I will have a plane at Butler Marine Terminal at 11 a.m. Monday to take you to Albany and to return you to New York after luncheon. My office will be in touch with you by phone today. With best wishes, Nelson A. Rockefeller."

Howard Coughlin, easily one of the country's leading authorities on office automation is concerned with maintaining white collar employment. And Van Arsdale still plans to uncork a drive for a four-hour day to take up the slack in construction jobs.

It would have been easy for Nelson Rockefeller to bypass the state's labor chiefs. They had fought him. They hardly expected to be consulted. They did not expect to be ferried by private plane.

They went up as Democrats. They did not return as Republicans. But the Governor had eased a political strain. This may be a minor point for the moment. However, points add up in the political Olympics in which the grand prize is the White House.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Phillip Newman and Mrs. Roy Owens.

HUMAN MILK VS. POLIO

Mother's milk as a food for newborn infants may have immunological properties heretofore unproven, suggests Dr. Clement A. Smith of Harvard Medical School.

In recent years, antibodies from the mother were thought to be transmitted to the infant only through the placenta. Therefore mother's milk was held to have no overriding advantage in this regard. New research, however, has proved the existence of polio antibodies in human milk.

TEACHING WOMEN TO RECOGNIZE BREAST CANCER

A community pilot project sponsored by the American Cancer Society and aimed at familiarizing women with the early signs of breast cancer has been set up at Polyclinic Hospital in New York. Major emphasis will be placed on teaching self- examination methods.

"The need. . .is underscored by the fact that 90 per cent of the breast tumors are found by the patient herself before she consults a physician," states Dr. Herbert Volk of the American Cancer Society. Early detection of cancer, permitting early surgery, is vital to survival of patients.

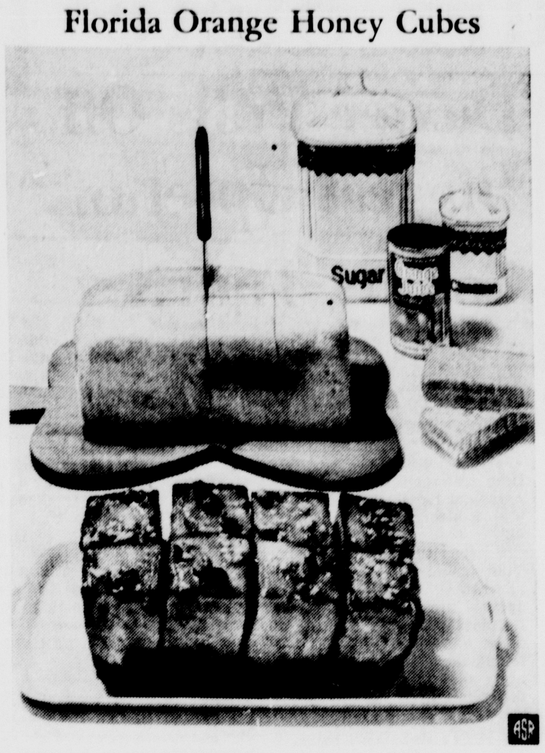
Florida Orange Honey Cubes



You've read about quick breads but this simple recipe produces a delicious, really QUICK quick bread! When time doesn't permit your whipping up your favorite morning coffee cake or afternoon tea bread, try quickie Orange Honey Cubes.

Cut a loaf of day-old unsliced white bread as directed. Combine fresh-frozen Florida orange juice concentrate with sugar, cinnamon, honey, butter and chopped nuts, pour the mixture over the cut loaf, and bake for ten to fifteen minutes. Easy? Delicious!

Orange Honey Cubes

1 loaf unsliced day-old white bread
¼ cup light brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted
¼ cup melted butter
¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts

Cut crust from top and sides of bread. Cut bread lengthwise almost through to bottom crust, then cut crosswise to form 8 cubes. Combine sugar, cinnamon, honey, orange juice concentrate, melted butter and nuts; stir until well blended. Pour mixture over bread, letting some run down into cubes and over top. Tie loosely with string. Place on cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 10-15 minutes. Remove string and serve warm. YIELD: 6 servings.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a college graduate. My husband dropped out of high school in the tenth grade when his father died. I didn't notice the wide intellectual gulf that separated Henry and me until we had been married several months.

Henry's grammar is so bad it is embarrassing. He is not informed on world affairs. When he attempts to discuss politics it is apparent he hasn't read a thing.

The friends Henry brings home from the office are uninformed and shallow. Their wives are stupid and dull. I've abandoned all hope of communicating with them.

What can a wife do when she is starved intellectually? I've met some bright women through my club work but I wouldn't dream of inviting them and their husbands to our home. They'd be bored to death by Henry. Any advice? — ONE WHO TRADED DOWN

Dear Traded: Maybe these dull wives can't distinguish between a Picasso and a hole in the rug but might pick up some useful hints on how to remove an ink spot from a white damask table cloth.

Satisfy your intellectual appetite in the afternoon, Kiddo. If you were half as smart as you think you are you wouldn't be knocking your husband's limited education. You'd be building him up for doing as well as he has in spite of it. (P.S. He was smart enough to marry you, wasn't he?)

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem. A few weeks ago we got a dog named Spot. My best friend (I will call her Donna) is scared to death of most dogs, and especially Spot.

Yesterday she came to our house and the minute she saw Spot she got panicky. You know, Ann, dogs can tell when people are afraid and it makes them even unfriendlier.

Well, Spot began to growl and Donna ran upstairs and locked herself in the bathroom. She wouldn't come out till I assured her that Spot was in the back room with the door closed.

Today she said if I want to do homework with her I'll have to go to her house. It's no fun over there. Donna doesn't have a room of her own and someone is always sick.

I told her how I felt and she said, "I will come over if you promise to keep Spot in another room." I consider Spot a member of the family and I don't think it's fair to lock him up because of my friend's silliness. Do you agree? —ON THE SPOT

Dear On: NO. A hostess is obliged to make her guests comfortable. It's unfortunate that Donna is afraid of dogs, but since she is, you should keep Spot behind a closed a door when she is a guest in your home.

Dear Ann: Our 20-year-old daughter is about to be married. She has a well-paying job but has always spent more money than she made.

I know this girl has a staggering number of unpaid bills for clothes, records, costume jewelry, luggage — anything she could buy on credit. I have asked her four times if her bills are paid, but she lies better than most people tell the truth.

Yes, Ann, I've failed, but it's too late to do anything about that now. What I need to know is should I tell her fiance that his bride-to-be is in debt up to her neck? Rush the advice. — TOO LATE SMART

Dear Too Late: Under no circumstances should you discuss this matter with the young man. Urge your daughter to tell him, however, and hope that she will. If she springs unpaid bills on her husband after marriage it could get things off to a wobbly start.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COMMON MEASLES THREATENS THE UNBORN

Common measles affects the outcome of pregnancy and threatens the life of the fetus in some cases, according to Dr. Stewart A. Fish of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine. Of 18 women studied who had had common measles during pregnancy, Dr. Fish reports, pregnancies in all of seven whose cases were severe ended in either abortion, anomalies, or premature delivery. The 11 mild cases showed no damage to the fetuses.

Happily, the threat of measles can now be averted. Recent tests show a new one-shot vaccine developed by Dr. Anton J. Schwarz to be 99.1 per cent effective in immunizing patients against common measles. The vaccine is expected to be available soon.

Extension Club Of Vanduser Has Meeting

The Vanduser Extension Club met Thursday night, January 21 in the city hall with 14 members and one visitor, Mrs. J. L. Burton present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Woodrow Beavers. Roll call was answered with, "My Favorite Color".

The ladies decided to have a bake sale on Saturday January 30, as a money-making project. Dues were paid, year books were filled out, and project leaders were appointed.

The Vanduser club was organized in April of last year, and the members worked very hard to earn a certificate with a blue ribbon and silver star at the achievement day program in Benton, for outstanding work for improving the home and community.

A skit, "Call To Order", was put on by the ladies, one group of club members showed how to conduct a meeting properly and the other group was very humorous as the meeting wasn't conducted as it should have been.

The club started this year with six new members; Mrs. Hosea Edwards, Mrs. Jim Johnson, Mrs. Herman Casey, Mrs. Coy Foster, Mrs. Bill Foster, and Mrs. Herbert Knight.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Phillip Newman and Mrs. Roy Owens.

The February meeting will be in the city hall with Mrs. Willis Owens and Mrs. Joe Hill as co-hostesses. The lesson will be meat and meat preparation by broiling with Mrs. Jim Johnson and Mrs. Phillip Newman giving the lesson.

A lesson on health will also be given by Mrs. E. L. Yondell.

HUMAN MILK VS. POLIO

Mother's milk as a food for newborn infants may have immunological properties heretofore unproven, suggests Dr. Clement A. Smith of Harvard Medical School.

In recent years, antibodies from the mother were thought to be transmitted to the infant only through the placenta. Therefore mother's milk was held to have no overriding advantage in this regard. New research, however, has proved the existence of polio antibodies in human milk.

TEACHING WOMEN TO RECOGNIZE BREAST CANCER

A community pilot project sponsored by the American Cancer Society and aimed at familiarizing women with the early signs of breast cancer has been set up at Polyclinic Hospital in New York. Major emphasis will be placed on teaching self- examination methods.

"The need . . . is underscored by the fact that 90 per cent of the breast tumors are found by the patient herself before she consults a physician," states Dr. Herbert Volk of the American Cancer Society. Early detection of cancer, permitting early surgery, is vital to survival of patients.

Florida Orange Honey Cubes

You've read about quick breads but this simple recipe produces a delicious, really QUICK quick bread! When time doesn't permit your whipping up your favorite morning coffee cake or afternoon tea bread, try quickie Orange Honey Cubes.

Cut a loaf of day-old unsliced white bread as directed. Combine fresh-frozen Florida orange juice concentrate with sugar, cinnamon, honey, butter and chopped nuts, pour the mixture over the cut loaf, and bake for ten to fifteen minutes. Easy? Delicious!

Orange Honey Cubes

1 loaf unsliced day-old white bread
¼ cup light brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed and undiluted
¼ cup melted butter
¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts

Cut crust from top and sides of bread. Cut bread lengthwise almost through to bottom crust, then cut crosswise to form 8 cubes. Combine sugar, cinnamon, honey, orange juice concentrate, melted butter and nuts; stir until well blended. Pour mixture over bread, letting some run down into cubes and over top. Tie loosely with string. Place on cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 10-15 minutes. Remove string and serve warm. YIELD: 6 servings.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a college graduate. My husband dropped out of high school in the tenth grade when his father died. I didn't notice the wide intellectual gulf that separated Henry and me until we had been married several months.

Henry's grammar is so bad it is embarrassing. He is not informed on world affairs. When he attempts to discuss politics it is apparent he hasn't read a thing.

The friends Henry brings home from the office are uninformed and shallow. Their wives are stupid and dull. I've abandoned all hope of communicating with them.

What can a wife do when she is starved intellectually? I've met some bright women through my club work but I wouldn't dream of inviting them and their husbands to our home. They'd be bored to death by Henry. Any advice? — ONE WHO TRADED DOWN

Dear Traded: Maybe these dull wives can't distinguish between a Picasso and a hole in the rug but might pick up some useful hints on how to remove an ink spot from a white damask table cloth.

Satisfy your intellectual appetite in the afternoon, Kiddo. If you were half as smart as you think you are you wouldn't be knocking your husband's limited education. You'd be building him up for doing as well as he has in spite of it. (P.S. He was smart enough to marry you, wasn't he?)

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem. A few weeks ago we got a dog named Spot. My best friend (I will call her Donna) is scared to death of most dogs, and especially Spot.

Yesterday she came to our house and the minute she saw Spot she got panicky. You know, Ann, dogs can tell when people are afraid and it makes them even unfriendlier.

Well, Spot began to growl and Donna ran upstairs and locked herself in the bathroom. She wouldn't come out till I assured her that Spot was in the back room with the door closed.

Today she said if I want to do homework with her I'll have to go to her house. It's no fun over there. Donna doesn't have a room of her own and someone is always sick.

I told her how I felt and she said, "I will come over if you promise to keep Spot in another room." I consider Spot a member of the family and I don't think it's fair to lock him up because of my friend's silliness. Do you agree? —ON THE SPOT

Dear On: NO. A hostess is obliged to make her guests comfortable. It's unfortunate that Donna is afraid of dogs, but since she is, you should keep Spot behind a closed a door when she is a guest in your home.

Dear Ann: Our 20-year-old daughter is about to be married. She has a well-paying job but has always spent more money than she made.

I know this girl has a staggering number of unpaid bills for clothes, records, costume jewelry, luggage — anything she could buy on credit. I have asked her four times if her bills are paid, but she lies better than most people tell the truth.

Yes, Ann, I've failed, but it's too late to do anything about that now. What I need to know is should I tell her fiance that his bride-to-be is in debt up to her neck? Rush the advice. — TOO LATE SMART

Dear Too Late: Under no circumstances should you discuss this matter with the young man. Urge your daughter to tell him, however, and hope that she will. If she springs unpaid bills on her husband after marriage it could get things off to a wobbly start.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COMMON MEASLES THREATENS THE UNBORN

Common measles affects the outcome of pregnancy and threatens the life of the fetus in some cases, according to Dr. Stewart A. Fish of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine. Of 18 women studied who had had common measles during pregnancy, Dr. Fish reports, pregnancies in all of seven whose cases were severe ended in either abortion, anomalies, or premature delivery. The 11 mild cases showed no damage to the fetuses.

Happily, the threat of measles can now be averted. Recent tests show a new one-shot vaccine developed by Dr. Anton J. Schwarz to be 99.1 per cent effective in immunizing patients against common measles. The vaccine is expected to be available soon.

Southeast Missouri State Faces Miners Saturday

Indians Go Into Game With Title In Mind

INDIANS HOPE TO KEEP TITLE HOPES ALIVE AGAINST ROLLA

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- Southeast Missouri State College meets University of Missouri, Rolla, here Saturday at 8 p.m., returning from two conference losses on the road which dealt a serious blow to hopes for a fifth-straight MIAA championship.

The Indians are currently 4-2 in the league race, after losing to conference leader Central Missouri and to Southwest Missouri in a two-game trip last weekend. SEMO now is in second place behind Central Missouri, which is undefeated to date in five conference games.

To stay in the fight, the Indians must win their remaining four conference games, three of which are at home. Besides dealing with the up-and-coming Miners of Rolla here this Saturday, and in the last game of the season at Rolla, SEMO must also handle Northeast Missouri and Central on the home court.

If the Indians can fill this tough bill, they will still have to rely on Southwest or Northwest Missouri, or UMR, to come up with a win against Central to gain even a tie.

UMR, under new head coach Billy Key, has come up with a team which, although heavily sprinkled with freshmen, is its best in several years. However, although the Miners have played better this year against conference opponents, their league record stands at 1-4, and a win over the Indians Saturday would be a major upset.

UMR played Southeast Missouri Missouri to a 82-79 decision in the MIAA Holiday Tournament, and played close games at Springfield and Warrensburg. The Miners' lone victory was over Northwest Missouri, and both share the league cellar.

Last weekend's road swing not only dropped SEMO to a 12-5 season record, but also caused a drop in most individual scoring averages. To add to coach Charles Parsley's problems, starting forward Thal Thrower, Kennett senior, suffered a badly-sprained ankle, and is probably lost to the team for the season.

The damage is especially hard on Parsley's bench. Kermit Meystedt, 6-5 sophomore from Cape Girardeau, an occasional starter and a first-line reserve, can ably move into the breach, but leaves the reserves without rebounding strength.

Despite his team's precarious position in the conference race --the worst in five years-- Parsley was still guardedly optimistic about chances for another title.

"If Warrensburg wins their last five games, of course, that's it," he said this week. "But with three of our last four games at home, we have the schedule in our favor, because Warrensburg plays three of four on the road, and Springfield has four of six on the road."

Probable Starters:

Hank Iba After Big Eight Title

Hank Iba, who coached the winning United States basketball team in the Tokyo Olympics, would like nothing better than to win the Big Eight Conference championship with his Oklahoma State Cowboys and become the nation's winningest coach among active college mentors.

The veteran 60-year-old, now in his 36th year of coaching, 31 at Oklahoma State, came within sight of both his goals in college basketball Thursday night.

His Cowboys edged Colorado 59-55 in a three-overtime game at Stillwater to remain at the top of the Big Eight with a 5-0 mark and 12-4 overall. The victory also was the 712th of his college career, putting him only two behind Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, now the nation's winningest coach.

The Oklahoma State story overshadowed the 14th straight of the fourth-ranked Providence Friars, who edged St. Bonaventure 77-76 to remain the nation's only unbeaten major team.

The once-beaten sixth-ranked Davidson Wildcats also won their 14th straight by downing East Carolina 82-68. The eighth-ranked San Francisco Dons, the only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action were beaten by Arizona 71-56.

Drake edged Tulsa 60-58, Houston nipped Baylor 80-78, New Mexico whipped Texas Western 69-58 and Arkansas overcame Mississippi State 84-69 in other games.

"Winning the conference championship will mean more to me than the Olympics," Iba has said several times. Oklahoma State's victory over Colorado was a giant stride towards that goal.

Two layups by Fred Moulder and Paul Labrue, both on passes from Larry Hawk, won for the Cowboys in the third extra period. The score was tied 26-26 at halftime, 49-49 at the end of regulation time, 51-51 after the first overtime and 53-53 after the second OT.

St. Bonaventure erased a 12-point deficit as the Bonnies just missed handing Providence its first defeat. It took Bill Blair's two free throws in the last 20 seconds of the game at Providence to keep the Friars' slate clean.

Bulldogs To Face Malden Saturday

It's those battling Bulldogs getting back into the swing of things again here Saturday night when they face the tough Malden Green Wave.

Sikeston, after clipping off five consecutive victories before losing to Greenville in the Poplar Bluff Invitational, will be going for their seventh victory against four defeats.

Although Sikeston's record is six and four at present they have scored one less point than opponents, 541-542, for an average of 54.1 points per game.

Bulldogs Take Blue Jays For Second Time

The wrestling Bulldogs turned in their fifth win of the season last night by defeating the Charleston Blue Jays 28-21 for the second time this year. This gives Sikeston a record of five wins and three losses.

Action began with the 95 pound division and little Billy Vaught caught up with his opponent, Don Weekly, to pin him in 50:9 of the third period.

Charleston won the 103 division by forfeit due to an injury.

David Whitaker, (112) won over Dondie Sutherland in a 6-4 decision. Sutherland defeated Whitaker in the previous match.

Jason Terry Collins (120) lost a 6-9 decision to Robinson.

Ken Cantrell (127) got Sikeston's winning ways started again by defeating Nath Jones 15-6.

Troy Bowden lost to tough Bill Brashears in the 133 division when Bill pinned him in 1:27 of the first period.

Bob Fowler was edged out by Robert Rogers 9-8.

Bill Humphries lost a 6-0 decision to Emmet Burke.

Joe Crain, in his second match of the season, pinned Oliver French in 1:32 of the second round. This gives Crain a 2-0 record.

James Marcy (180) continued his undefeated season by pinning Vernon Cates in the third round.

Wichita Seeking Perfect Record

Wichita hopes to keep its Missouri Valley record perfect against Louisville in the final game of All America Dave Stallworth's collegiate career Saturday night at Wichita, while runner-up St. Louis takes on skidding Cincinnati.

The Bradley-Tulsa game will remain an afternoon contest, although television was cancelled because of the Churchill funeral.

Wichita, ranked no. 5 nationally, will be without 6-10 Nate Bowman, sidelined for scholastic troubles the rest of the season and without the 6-7 Stallworth after the game with Louisville, the Valley's third-place team at 4-2. Wichita stands 5-0 in league play, St. Louis 4-1.

Bradley is next at 3-3, Tulsa 2-3, Drake 2-4, Cincinnati 1-4 and North Texas 0-4.

Dexter Pulls Off Biggest Upset of County Tourney

BLOOMFIELD -- The Tourney shy Advance Hornets were pulled under again last night in semi-final action by the hot blasting Dexter Bearcats, 71-67. The "B" game found Advance again in the pit, this time with the Bloomfield Wildcats and the Hornets came in with a strong finish to win 55-46.

In the Christmas Holiday Tournament the Advance five churned along to get into the semi - finals, but the Gideon Bulldogs pulled off the biggest upset to hit this year and defeated them by one point. Last night they were outplayed for the first three quarters, and had a last quarter rally nipped off before they could come in with the victory.

Advance, after trying a host of different defenses, finally went into a man to man press and almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Dexter battled out to lead by four in the first period, 16-12. They continued their barrage the second frame to pull out by eight as first half play ended.

As second half play cranked up the Bearcats managed to pull out at one time to lead by 16 in the third period before the Hornets could start finding the range. Big Bob Moroni and sophomore guard, Bill Morgan, each scored ten points the last frame to pull in just four shy of Dexter as the game ended.

Gordon McKee again proved unstoppable by scoring 24 points. He doesn't miss once he is within ten feet of the basket.

Orioles Fluttering In To Sign Pacts

If the Baltimore Orioles, who came within a flutter of the American League pennant last season, are to wind up perched on the nest with all the eggs in it this year, comebacks could be the key.

Six players returned signed contracts to the Orioles Thursday and three of them — pitchers Mike McCormick and Chuck Estrada and first - baseman Norm Siebern — will be out to reverse poor records in 1965.

McCormick, who broke into the majors as a teen-ager with the New York Giants in 1956 and won the National League earned-run average title in 1960, has been a major disappointment to the Orioles since coming in a trade in 1962.

He has won just six games in the last two seasons and spent most of 1964 toiling for the Orioles' International League farm club at Rochester. But the southpaw is only 26 and might still become a winner at Baltimore.

Estrada was a key member of the Orioles' youthful pitching staff and won 33 games in his first two seasons. But, like McCormick, Chuck has suffered from arm trouble and produced just six victories in the last two years for Baltimore. He underwent surgery last season and, at 27, could still come back to make the difference for the Birds.

Siebern, acquired from Kansas City in an even-up swap of first basemen last winter, slumped badly at the plate. Norm, a career .284 hitter, batted only .245 and his 12 home runs and 56 runs batted in were quite a drop from the 24 homers and 72 RBI Gentile produced the year before.

Other Orioles to sign Thursday were relief pitcher Stu Miller and rookie hurlers Pat McMahon and Ted Miller. The veteran Miller worked in 66 games and had a 7-7 record as the Orioles' top reliever.

Sam Perry Equals Indoor Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Perry, 19-year-old son of a New York janitor, had just equaled the world's indoor record for the 60-yard dash, 5.9 seconds, and was being besieged by reporters.

"It feels good," the Fordham junior said in answer to the inevitable question: "How do you feel?"

"It feels good to be the world's fastest human."

If there was any malice, any small dart aimed at Bob Hayes, it wasn't apparent. Sam said it with a straight face. Hayes, the Florida A&M flash who set the record in New York a year ago and then won the Olympic 100 meters, had proudly worn that title for two years.

Now he's turned pro and off the indoor track circuit, but still very much on young Sam's mind.

"The competition isn't as severe this year," said Perry, who missed the Olympics because of a leg injury. "That makes it tougher on me. There's no one pushing me. I have to push myself. That's tough."

It certainly didn't look tough Thursday night when Perry won the 60 before a crowd of 15,952 watching the Wanamaker-Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden.

The four finalists in the 60 had to sweat out two false starts before they got away. Perry, running against Olympic sprinters Paul Drayton and Mel Pender, and Ed Roberts, got a good start and had a clear-cut lead by 30 yards. He won it by at least a yard and with the victory nailed down the award as the meet's outstanding athlete.

Was he shooting for a 5.9, equaled only by Hayes?

"Everytime I go off the blocks I'm leaping at 5.9," he said.

Perry, overshadowed by Hayes for two years and knocked out of the Olympics by his leg trouble, was easily the highlight of a surprisingly so-so meet that opened a three- city, three-meet indoor track weekend.

He's skipping the Telegram-Maple Leaf Games in Toronto tonight, but will be in Boston for the Boston A.A. Games Saturday.

Bill Crothers, the Toronto pharmacist who won the half-mile easily by 10 yards in 1:51.2, is going to make all three. Crothers, unbeaten indoors this winter, said:

"I'm not going for any records now. I'm just running for fun. This was a very comfortable race. If I have to run fast enough for a record, maybe I will, but I didn't have to here."

Little Guys Are Leading In Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three little guys shared the lead with two big fellows today in the Lucky International Open Golf Tournament. Precedent rules against the bruisers.

No hefty pro ever has captured the top prize in the previous four years of this $57,500 tournament.

The three little guys who carried three-under-par 68s into the second round are Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla.; Butch Baird of Carlton Oaks, Calif., and veteran Gardner Dickinson of Lost Tree Village, Fla. Baird at 150 pounds is the heavyweight of this group.

The comparative Goliaths are George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., and Jack Montgomery of Fort Worth, Tex. Archer is 6-foot-6 — big even for a professional golfer — and Montgomery is 6-2. Each weighs 185 pounds.

Gene Littler and Jack Burke at 165 pounds are the heaviest former winners of the Lucky. Gary Player weighed 150 and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez is only 120, including golf shoes.

Littler started today at Harding Municipal course at 72, Rodriguez at 73. The two other previous winners are absent.

Billy Casper had a 72 and Tony Lema 73 in the opening round on a day meant for professionals other than favorites.

Billy Martindale of Jacksonville, Tex., was all alone at 69 after 18 holes of the 72-hole event.

There were 10 golfers grouped at 70. After today, 90 of 144 pros will be left to play with the 10 amateurs, who were led by Guy Bill's first-round 72, one-over-par.

Darrell Royal And Conference Dislike A.F.L.

Darrell Royal and the Southeastern Conference have no love for the American Football League, AFL Commissioner Joe Foss doesn't like redshirting, George Sauer Jr., has no scholarship and Darrel Royal doesn't have George Sauer Jr.

That was the linescore today in the latest installment of what appears to be an endless controversy in present-day football.

Moving from secret drafts to double signings to early signings, football has arrived at Sauer, a star pass receiver on Royal's Texas team who has relinquished his college scholarship in anticipation of a professional contract with the New York Jets of the AFL.

Royal is incensed that Sauer, son of Jets' personnel director George Sauer Sr., would pass up his final season of eligibility at Texas to turn pro. Sauer has the 1965 season left — even though his original class graduates in June — because he was redshirted as a sophomore in 1962.

A redshirt is a player who is withheld from varsity competition for one season, usually in his sophomore year, in the hope he can be of more help to his team in his fifth year of school.

Sauer declined to say Thursday night whether he will sign a pro contract but did say, "I definitely will not use my fifth year of football eligibility at Texas."

He also said he has moved from his room in the athletic dormitory and has paid his own tuition and fees for the spring semester. He will need only 10 credits after the spring term for graduation as a mathematics major.

Royal doesn't want to lose Sauer.

"We've wet nursed him through three years and toughed him up and now just when we're getting ready to capitalize on him, bam, he's gone," the coach said.

But Royal also threatened to bar all AFL personnel from Texas practice fields, dressing rooms and press boxes if the Jets sign Sauer now.

The Jets, incidentally, say they didn't go to Sauer but that he announced his interest in turning pro immediately.

If the pass catcher does go with the Jets, he by no means will be the first collegian to pass up a final year of eligibility. At least eight fellow redshirts already have signed with teams in both leagues for the 1965 season.

Although the Southeastern Conference did not concern itself with the Sauer affair, it did vote to sever relations with the AFL because of the league's stand on early signings of college players.

The conference's sports publicity directors, acting at the request of the schools' athletic directors and coaches, passed a resolution stating they will refuse to cooperate with AFL representatives in any way.

AFL people will not be permitted in SEC facilities and will not be provided with information about pro prospects playing for SEC schools.

Conference spokesmen said the action was taken because the AFL refused to say it would stop signing collegians before their entire seasons were over. The NFL made such a change in its constitution at the request of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

An AFL official, however, pointed out Thursday night that the league didn't refuse to stop such signings but contended instead that a meeting of the two leagues with the NCAA was necessary to iron out the situation.

Earlier in the day, Commissioner Foss attacked the practice of redshirting and defended the right of a boy to earn a living as a pro football player, engineer or chemist after four years of college.

Southeast Missouri State Faces Miners Saturday

Indians Go Into Game With Title In Mind

INDIANS HOPE TO KEEP TITLE HOPES ALIVE AGAINST ROLLA

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- Southeast Missouri State College meets University of Missouri, Rolla, here Saturday at 8 p.m., returning from two conference losses on the road which dealt a serious blow to hopes for a fifth-straight MIAA championship.

The Indians are currently 4-2 in the league race, after losing to conference leader Central Missouri and to Southwest Missouri in a two-game trip last weekend. SEMO now is in second place behind Central Missouri, which is undefeated to date in five conference games.

To stay in the fight, the Indians must win their remaining four conference games, three of which are at home. Besides dealing with the up-and-coming Miners of Rolla here this Saturday, and in the last game of the season at Rolla, SEMO must also handle Northeast Missouri and Central on the home court.

If the Indians can fill this tough bill, they will still have to rely on Southwest or Northwest Missouri, or UMR, to come up with a win against Central to gain even a tie.

UMR, under new head coach Billy Key, has come up with a team which, although heavily sprinkled with freshmen, is its best in several years. However, although the Miners have played better this year against conference opponents, their league record stands at 1-4, and a win over the Indians Saturday would be a major upset.

UMR played Southeast Missouri Missouri to a 82-79 decision in the MIAA Holiday Tournament, and played close games at Springfield and Warrensburg. The Miners' lone victory was over Northwest Missouri, and both share the league cellar.

Last weekend's road swing not only dropped SEMO to a 12-5 season record, but also caused a drop in most individual scoring averages. To add to coach Charles Parsley's problems, starting forward Thal Thrower, Kennett senior, suffered a badly-sprained ankle, and is probably lost to the team for the season.

The damage is especially hard on Parsley's bench. Kermit Meystedt, 6-5 sophomore from Cape Girardeau, an occasional starter and a first-line reserve, can ably move into the breach, but leaves the reserves without rebounding strength.

Despite his team's precarious position in the conference race --the worst in five years-- Parsley was still guardedly optimistic about chances for another title.

"If Warrensburg wins their last five games, of course, that's it," he said this week. "But with three of our last four games at home, we have the schedule in our favor, because Warrensburg plays three of four on the road, and Springfield has four of six on the road."

Probable Starters:

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI
Tom Drexler (6-6)	F
Kermit Meystedt (6-5)	F
Jack Becker (6-7)	C
Mike Gross (6-1)	G
Ron Hextell (5-11)	G
UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI ROLLA

Bulldogs To Face Malden Saturday

It's those battling Bulldogs getting back into the swing of things again here Saturday night when they face the tough Malden Green Wave.

Sikeston, after clipping off five consecutive victories before losing to Greenville in the Poplar Bluff Invitational, will be going for their seventh victory against four defeats.

Although Sikeston's record is six and four at present they have scored one less point than opponents, 541-542, for an average of 54.1 points per game.

Hank Iba After Big Eight Title

Hank Iba, who coached the winning United States basketball team in the Tokyo Olympics, would like nothing better than to win the Big Eight Conference championship with his Oklahoma State Cowboys and become the nation's winningest coach among active college mentors.

The veteran 60-year-old, now in his 36th year of coaching, 31 at Oklahoma State, came within sight of both his goals in college basketball Thursday night.

His Cowboys edged Colorado 59-55 in a three-overtime game at Stillwater to remain at the top of the Big Eight with a 5-0 mark and 12-4 overall. The victory also was the 712th of his college career, putting him only two behind Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, now the nation's winningest coach.

The Oklahoma State story overshadowed the 14th straight of the fourth-ranked Providence Friars, who edged St. Bonaventure 77-76 to remain the nation's only unbeaten major team.

The once-beaten sixth-ranked Davidson Wildcats also won their 14th straight by downing East Carolina 82-68. The eighth-ranked San Francisco Dons, the only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action were beaten by Arizona 71-56.

Drake edged Tulsa 60-58, Houston nipped Baylor 80-78, New Mexico whipped Texas Western 69-58 and Arkansas overcame Mississippi State 84-69 in other games.

"Winning the conference championship will mean more to me than the Olympics," Iba has said several times. Oklahoma State's victory over Colorado was a giant stride towards that goal.

Two layups by Fred Moulder and Paul Labrue, both on passes from Larry Hawk, won for the Cowboys in the third extra period. The score was tied 26-26 at halftime, 49-49 at the end of regulation time, 51-51 after the first overtime and 53-53 after the second OT.

St. Bonaventure erased a 12-point deficit as the Bonnies just missed handing Providence its first defeat. It took Bill Blair's two free throws in the last 20 seconds of the game at Providence to keep the Friars' slate clean.

Bulldogs Take Blue Jays For Second Time

The wrestling Bulldogs turned in their fifth win of the season last night by defeating the Charleston Blue Jays 28-21 for the second time this year. This gives Sikeston a record of five wins and three losses.

Action began with the 95 pound division and little Billy Vaught caught up with his opponent, Don Weekly, to pin him in 50:9 of the third period.

Charleston won the 103 division by forfeit due to an injury.

David Whitaker, (112) won over Dondie Sutherland in a 6-4 decision. Sutherland defeated Whitaker in the previous match.

son. Terry Collins (120) lost a 6-9 decision to Robinson.

Ken Cantrell (127) got Sikeston's winning ways started again by defeating Nath Jones 15-6.

Troy Bowden lost to tough Bill Brashears in the 133 division when Bill pinned him in 1:27 of the first period.

Bob Fowler was edged out by Robert Rogers 9-8.

Robert Sites (145) continues to roll undefeated as he pinned Calimore Stallings with :52 left in the second round.

Bill Humphries lost a 6-0 decision to Emmet Burke.

Joe Crain, in his second match of the season, pinned Oliver French in 1:32 of the second round. This gives Crain a 2-0 record.

James Marcy (180) continued his undefeated season by pinning Vernon Cates in the third round.

Wichita Seeking Perfect Record

Wichita hopes to keep its Missouri Valley record perfect against Louisville in the final game of All America Dave Stallworth's collegiate career Saturday night at Wichita, while runner-up St. Louis takes on skidding Cincinnati.

The Bradley-Tulsa game will remain an afternoon contest, although television was cancelled because of the Churchill funeral.

Wichita, ranked no. 5 nationally, will be without 6-10 Nate Bowman, sidelined for scholastic troubles the rest of the season and without the 6-7 Stallorth after the game with Louisville, the Valley's third-place team at 4-2. Wichita stands 5-0 in league play, St. Louis 4-1.

Bradley is next at 3-3, Tulsa 2-3, Drake 2-4, Cincinnati 1-4 and North Texas 0-4.

Dexter Pulls Off Biggest Upset of County Tourney

BLOOMFIELD -- The Tourney shy Advance Hornets were pulled under again last night in semi-final action by the hot blasting Dexter Bearcats, 71-67. The "B" game found Advance again in the pit, this time with the Bloomfield Wildcats and the Hornets came in with a strong finish to win 55-46.

In the Christmas Holiday Tournament the Advance five churned along to get into the semi - finals, but the Gideon Bulldogs pulled off the biggest upset to hit this year and defeated them by one point. Last night they were outplayed for the first three quarters, and had a last quarter rally nipped off before they cculd come in with the victory.

Advance, after trying a host of different defenses, finally went into a man to man press and almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Dexter battled out to lead by four in the first period, 16-12. They continued their barrage the second frame to pull out by eight as first half play ended.

As second half play cranked up the Bearcats managed to pull out at one time to lead by 16 in the third period before the Hornets could start finding the range. Big Bob Moroni and sophomore guard, Bill Morgan, each scored ten points the last frame to pull in just four shy of Dexter as the game ended.

Gordon McKee again proved unstoppable by scoring 24 points. He doesn't miss once he is within ten feet of the basket.

Orioles Fluttering In To Sign Pacts

If the Baltimore Orioles, who came within a flutter of the American League pennant last season, are to wind up perched on the nest with all the eggs in it this year, comebacks could be the key.

Six players returned signed contracts to the Orioles Thursday and three of them — pitchers Mike McCormick and Chuck Estrada and first - baseman Norm Siebern — will be out to reverse poor records in 1965.

McCormick, who broke into the majors as a teen-ager with the New York Giants in 1956 and won the National League earned-run average title in 1960, has been a major disappointment to the Orioles since coming in a trade in 1962.

He has won just six games in the last two seasons and spent most of 1964 toiling for the Orioles' International League farm club at Rochester. But the southpaw is only 26 and might still become a winner at Baltimore.

But, like McCormick, Chuck has suffered from arm trouble and produced just six victories in the last two years for Baltimore. He underwent surgery last season and, at 27, could still come back to make the difference for the Birds.

Siebern, acquired from Kansas City in an even-up swap of first basemen last winter, slumped badly at the plate. Norm, a career .284 hitter, batted only .245 and his 12 home runs and 56 runs batted in were quite a drop from the 24 homers and 72 RBI Gentile produced the year before.

Other Orioles to sign Thursday were relief pitcher Stu Miller and rookie hurlers Pat McMahon and Ted Miller. The veteran Miller worked in 66 games and had a 7-7 record as the Orioles' top reliever.

Sam Perry Equals Indoor Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Perry, 19-year-old son of a New York janitor, had just equaled the world's indoor record for the 60-yard dash, 5.9 seconds, and was being besieged by reporters.

Little Guys Are Leading In Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three little guys shared the lead with two big fellows today in the Lucky International Open Golf Tournament. Precedent rules against the bruisers.

No hefty pro ever has captured the top prize in the previous four years of this $57,500 tournament.

The three little guys who carried three-under-par 68s into the second round are Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla.; Butch Baird of Carlton Oaks, Calif., and veteran Gardner Dickinson of Lost Tree Village, Fla. Baird at 150 pounds is the heavyweight of this group.

The comparative Goliaths are George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., and Jack Montgomery of Fort Worth, Tex. Archer is 6-foot-6 — big even for a professional golfer — and Montgomery is 6-2. Each weighs 185 pounds.

Gene Littler and Jack Burke at 165 pounds are the heaviest former winners of the Lucky. Gary Player weighed 150 and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez is only 120, including golf shoes.

Littler started today at Harding Municipal course at 72, Rodriguez at 73. The two other previous winners are absent.

Billy Casper had a 72 and Tony Lema 73 in the opening round on a day meant for professionals other than favorites.

Billy Martindale of Jacksonville, Tex., was all alone at 69 after 18 holes of the 72-hole event.

There were 10 golfers grouped at 70. After today, 90 of 144 pros will be left to play with the 10 amateurs, who were led by Guy Bill's first-round 72, one-over-par.

Darrell Royal And Conference Dislike A.F.L.

Darrell Royal and the Southeastern Conference have no love for the American Football League, AFL Commissioner Joe Foss doesn't like redshirting, George Sauer Jr., has no scholarship and Darrel Royal doesn't have George Sauer Jr.

That was the linescore today in the latest installment of what appears to be an endless controversy in present-day football.

Moving from secret drafts to double signings to early signings, football has arrived at Sauer, a star pass receiver on Royal's Texas team who has relinquished his college scholarship in anticipation of a professional contract with the New York Jets of the AFL.

Royal is incensed that Sauer, son of Jets' personnel director George Sauer Sr., would pass up his final season of eligibility at Texas to turn pro. Sauer has the 1965 season left — even though his original class graduates in June — because he was redshirted as a sophomore in 1962.

A redshirt is a player who is withheld from varsity competition for one season, usually in his sophomore year, in the hope he can be of more help to his team in his fifth year of school.

Sauer declined to say Thursday night whether he will sign a pro contract but did say, "Indefinitely will not use my fifth year of football eligibility at Texas."

He also said he has moved from his room in the athletic dormitory and has paid his own tuition and fees for the spring semester. He will need only 10 credits after the spring term for graduation as a mathematics major.

Royal doesn't want to lose Sauer.

"We've wet nursed him through three years and toughed him up and now just when we're getting ready to capitalize on him, bam, he's gone," the coach said.

But Royal also threatened to bar all AFL personnel from Texas practice fields, dressing rooms and press boxes if the Jets sign Sauer now.

The Jets, incidentally, say they didn't go to Sauer but that he announced his interest in turning pro immediately.

If the pass catcher does go with the Jets, he by no means will be the first collegian to pass up a final year of eligibility. At least eight fellow redshirts already have signed with teams in both leagues for the 1965 season.

Although the Southeastern Conference did not concern itself with the Sauer affair, it did vote to sever relations with the AFL because of the league's stand on early signings of college players.

The conference's sports publicity directors, acting at the request of the schools' athletic directors and coaches, passed a resolution stating they will refuse to cooperate with AFL representatives in any way.

AFL people will not be permitted in SEC facilities and will not be provided with information about pro prospects playing for SEC schools.

Conference spokesmen said the action was taken because the AFL refused to say it would stop signing collegians before their entire seasons were over. The NFL made such a change in its constitution at the request of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

An AFL official, however, pointed out Thursday night that the league didn't refuse to stop such signings but contended instead that a meeting of the two leagues with the NCAA was necessary to iron out the situation.

Earlier in the day, Commissioner Foss attacked the practice of redshirting and defended the right of a boy to earn a living as a pro football player, engineer or chemist after four years of college.

Bragg City Wins Over Deering 68-55

BRAGG CITY -- The Bragg City Indians, who pulled down the Conference Championship last week rolled to their twelfth win of the season here last night by downing Deering 68-55. This gives the Indians an over all mark of twelve wins and five losses.

Bragg City's offense was woven into three big scorers. Tomlinson led with 22, Coffman hit for 17, and Sullivan dumped in 14 to round out the double figure scoring. Graham was high for Deering with 15 points.

Deering split the nights action by taking the "B" game 63-36.

What do Buddhists Want?

In the bewilderment generated by the Buddhists and the generals in South Viet Nam, the most baffling question is: What do the Buddhists want? The Buddhists themselves do not seem to know.

The new military coup in Saigon hardly can be interpreted as a step toward the stability the United States has sought in its efforts to keep South Viet Nam out of Communist hands.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the durable young string puller, simply reasserted military rule. In effect, it was there all the time in spite of a facade of civilian government under the now deposed premier, Tran Van Huong.

Buddhists cheered Khanh's new coup, but it is difficult to see what they hope to gain from it. They demonstrated just as violently last summer against Khanh as they did against Huong.

Some U.S. policy makers profess to see something encouraging in the latest development: that perhaps it will lead to some sort of viable civil rule. But Americans periodically expressed encouragement in the past, only to have their hopes smashed by new upheavals. There have been seven major ones since November 1963 when President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown.

Indeed, there can be new frustration for Americans. The upshot may be that Washington will have to choose between Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. Khanh, who evidently cannot abide the U.S. envoy. Since the Buddhists enthusiastically share Khanh's distaste for Taylor, his usefulness is in doubt.

There can be no solution to Saigon's violent instability until somebody finds out what the Buddhists want. They have been the key.

But do they know what they want? First, it was civilian rule. They got a form of it and turned against it. Then it was representative government. But they cheered when the military took over again this week.

Two years ago Buddhist unrest had religious overtones. They pictured themselves as oppressed by Diem, a Catholic. Since then, religion and politics have come together.

Evidently some influential Buddhist leaders have the idea that in some way they will be able to deal with the Communist threat because they are Asians and the Americans are not. The Communists have made the most of this notion.

The confusion has been a windfall to the Viet Cong. But now there probably are elements among the Buddhists hell-bent to keep the boat rocking. The Buddhist rank and file must by now be heavily infiltrated by Viet Cong agents.

Pair Off With Prunes

Prunes make good partners with other foods, servable at all meals. They pair off with meat, fish, poultry and vegetables as well as other fruits, in the vegetable, main course, salad or dessert.

For an intriguing easy-to-do entree, for example, try prunes in your next meat loaf.

Allow one cup of chopped, plumped prunes for each two pounds of meat loaf mixture. Combine ingredients as usual and place in a baking pan. Then press whole, pitted, plumped prunes into the top of the loaf so each slice will have a prune garnish. Bake and serve as usual.

Mashed prunes in mashed sweetpotatoes make an excellent vegetable to serve with baked ham. To prepare, place mashed sweets in a baking pan and swirl in mashed, plumped prunes. Dot generously with butter and bake in moderate oven. Serve hot - perhaps garnished with a whole prune.

For more challenging pairing off with prunes, try these recipes recommended by USDA home economists.

PAIRING OFF WITH PRUNES
RECIPES

SPICED SHORT RIBS WITH PRUNES
3 lbs. beef short ribs
Fat or drippings
1 1/2 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. ground cloves
3 tbsp. vinegar
2 cups dried prunes

Brown ribs in fat. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add water; cover pan tightly, and simmer for 1 hour. Combine sugar and spices with vinegar then add to beef with prunes. Continue cooking 1 hour or until meat is tender. Skim off fat. Thicken cooking sauce if desired and serve with short ribs.
Yield: 6 servings.

LAMB AND PRUNE ARMENIAN

Fat or drippings
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
2 cloves garlic, peeled and sliced
1 6-oz. can tomato paste
1/4 tsp. thyme
1 cup tomato juice or water
2 onions, peeled and sliced
1 cup dried prunes
1 cup water
3 cups hot cooked rice (from 1 cup uncooked rice)
3 carrots, peeled and sliced

In melted fat, brown lamb until crisp on all sides. Pour off drippings. Season meat with salt and pepper. Add garlic, tomato paste, thyme and tomato juice. Cover pan and simmer 45 minutes. Add onions carrots, prunes and water. Cover and simmer 45 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender, adding more water if necessary. Serve with rice. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

The mistake of optimistic people is not in expecting too much of the future, but in exacting too little from the present.

Learn by Listening With Spanish Records

A child first learns to speak by listening to the voices which are around him. The student also needs to hear words, as they are actually spoken in Spanish. SPEED SPEECH now enables you to hear the words, as you study Spanish by this entirely new concept in teaching. The textbook is coordinated with two 45 RPM records, and when you learn the "MAGIC KEYS" which are explained in the course, you are on your way to learning Spanish, the SPEED SPEECH way. This system is the simplest, yet most effective, way to learn a foreign language, and is now being offered only through the Daily Sikeston Standard.

William Archer was always a diligent student of Spanish, however, when he and his family moved to Mexico, he found that he could not converse with the natives. This complete inability to communicate properly was the inspiration for the creation of Spanish SPEED SPEECH. One astonishing fact which is brought out in the course is that there are thousands of words that have the same spelling in Spanish that they do in English. You can control these words in your Spanish vocabulary by simply changing the pronunciation from English to Spanish. "Ideal" is pronounced "E-day-ahl" in Spanish. Simple?

Spanish SPEED SPEECH is available only through The Daily Sikeston Standard. Since it is being offered as a public service to our readers, we are able to give you the textbook and records at considerable savings by following these simple instructions:

Send the easy order blank, which will appear in The Daily Sikeston Standard several times each week. However, you may order only the textbook, if you desire. Mail the order blank and check or money order for $3.04 for each item, payable to The Daily Sikeston Standard.

They got a form of it and turned against it. Then it was representative government. But they cheered when the military took over again this week.

Two years ago Buddhist unrest had religious overtones. They pictured themselves as oppressed by Diem, a Catholic. Since then, religion and politics have come together.

Evidently some influential Buddhist leaders have the idea that in some way they will be able to deal with the Communist threat because they are Asians and the Americans are not. The Communists have made the most of this notion.

The confusion has been a windfall to the Viet Cong. But now there probably are elements among the Buddhists hell-bent to keep the boat rocking. The Buddhist rank and file must by now be heavily infiltrated by Viet Cong agents.

Pair Off With Prunes

Prunes make good partners with other foods, servable at all meals. They pair off with meat, fish, poultry and vegetables as well as other fruits, in the vegetable, main course, salad or dessert.

For an intriguing easy-to-do entree, for example, try prunes in your next meat loaf.

Allow one cup of chopped, plumped prunes for each two pounds of meat loaf mixture. Combine ingredients as usual and place in a baking pan. Then press whole, pitted, plumped prunes into the top of the loaf so each slice will have a prune garnish. Bake and serve as usual.

Mashed prunes in mashed sweetpotatoes make an excellent vegetable to serve with baked ham. To prepare, place mashed sweets in a baking pan and swirl in mashed, plumped prunes. Dot generously with butter and bake in moderate oven. Serve hot - perhaps garnished with a whole prune.

For more challenging pairing off with prunes, try these recipes recommended by USDA home economists.

PAIRING OFF WITH PRUNES
RECIPES

SPICED SHORT RIBS WITH PRUNES
3 lbs. beef short ribs
Fat or drippings
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. allspice
1/4 tsp. ground cloves
3 tbsp. vinegar
2 cups dried prunes

Brown ribs in fat. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add water; cover pan tightly, and simmer for 1 hour. Combine sugar and spices with vinegar then add to beef with prunes. Continue cooking 1 hour or until meat is tender. Skim off fat. Thicken cooking sauce if desired and serve with short ribs.
Yield: 6 servings.

LAMB AND PRUNE ARMENIAN
2 lbs. breast of lamb, cut in serving pieces
Fat or drippings
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
2 cloves garlic, peeled and sliced
1 6-oz. can tomato paste
1/4 tsp. thyme
1 cup tomato juice or water
2 onions, peeled and sliced
1 cup dried prunes
1 cup water
3 cups hot cooked rice (from 1 cup uncooked rice)
3 carrots, peeled and sliced

In melted fat, brown lamb until crisp on all sides. Pour off drippings. Season meat with salt and pepper. Add garlic, tomato paste, thyme and tomato juice. Cover pan and simmer 45 minutes. Add onions carrots, prunes and water. Cover and simmer 45 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender, adding more water if necessary. Serve with rice.
Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

The mistake of optimistic people is not in expecting too much of the future, but in exacting too little from the present.

What do Buddhists Want?

In the bewilderment generated by the Buddhists and the generals in South Viet Nam, the most baffling question is: What do the Buddhists want? The Buddhists themselves do not seem to know.

The new military coup in Saigon hardly can be interpreted as a step toward the stability the United States has sought in its efforts to keep South Viet Nam out of Communist hands.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the durable young string puller, simply reasserted military rule. In effect, it was there all the time in spite of a facade of civilian government under the now deposed premier, Tran Van Huong.

Buddhists cheered Khanh's new coup, but it is difficult to see what they hope to gain from it. They demonstrated just as violently last summer against Khanh as they did against Huong.

Some U.S. policy makers profess to see something encouraging in the latest development: that perhaps it will lead to some sort of viable civil rule. But Americans periodically expressed encouragement in the past, only to have their hopes smashed by new upheavals. There have been seven major ones since November 1963 when President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown.

Indeed, there can be new frustration for Americans. The upshot may be that Washington will have to choose between Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. Khanh, who evidently cannot abide the U.S. envoy. Since the Buddhists enthusiastically share Khanh's distaste for Taylor, his usefulness is in doubt.

There can be no solution to Saigon's violent instability until somebody finds out what the Buddhists want. They have been the key.

But do they know what they want? First, it was civilian rule.

Learn by Listening With Spanish Records

A child first learns to speak by listening to the voices which are around him. The student also needs to hear words, as they are actually spoken in Spanish. SPEED SPEECH now enables you to hear the words, as you study Spanish by this entirely new concept in teaching. The textbook is coordinated with two 45 RPM records, and when you learn the "MAGIC KEYS" which are explained in the course, you are on your way to learning Spanish, the SPEED SPEECH way. This system is the simplest, yet most effective, way to learn a foreign language, and is now being offered only through the Daily Sikeston Standard.

William Archer was always a diligent student of Spanish, however, when he and his family moved to Mexico, he found that he could not converse with the natives. This complete inability to communicate properly was the inspiration for the creation of Spanish SPEED SPEECH. One astonishing fact which is brought out in the course is that there are thousands of words that have the same spelling in Spanish that they do in English. You can control these words in your Spanish vocabulary by simply changing the pronunciation from English to Spanish. "Ideal" is pronounced "E-day-ahl" in Spanish. Simple?

Spanish SPEED SPEECH is available only through The Daily Sikeston Standard. Since it is being offered as a public service to our readers, we are able to give you the textbook and records at considerable savings by following these simple instructions:

Send the easy order blank, which will appear in The Daily Sikeston Standard several times each week. However, you may order only the textbook, if you desire. Mail the order blank and check or money order for $3.04 for each item, payable to The Daily Sikeston Standard.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1965. There are 336 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1737, Thomas Paine was born in England.

Health & Safety Tips

SPORTS FADS

The athelete -- including the ~~weekend golfer or skier~~-- who experiments with pep pills, whiffs of oxygen, odd dietary supplements and other such fads in the hope of improving performance is doomed to disappointment and may even be courting bodily harm.

Sports, with their premium on endurance and top performance, are fertile soil for experimentation with a wide varity of what physicians call "ergogenic aids", erogogenic being defined as increasing the capacity of bodily and mental effort, especially by eliminating fatigue symptoms.

The mystique of the readiness of the athlete for competition intrigues the sports enthusiast, says a joint comment of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations and the Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports of the American Medical Association.

None of the fads, fallacies and quackery associated with ergogenic aids is of any more assistance to athletic success than the superstition of never changing underwear during a winning streak, the joint statement says. And some of the practices may even be hazardous if carried to extremes.

For safe and effective performance, there still is no alternative to the fullest utilization of one's natural resources through good personal health practices, top physical conditioning and confidence in one's ability based on careful coaching and good medical supervision.

The four-minute mile barrier was broken ten years ago and running the mile in the 3:50's is now commonplace although it was long considered impossible. Athletes set new records not through gimmicks but through spartan self-discipline and effort focused on peak condition and extreme refinement of skill.

The two sports groups label over reliance on isometric exercises as a fad for which claims have been exaggerated. Isometrics can increase muscular strength but they do not assist range of motion or heart-lung endurance. The notion that extra vitamins are needed by athletes is labeled as a fallacy. The essentials of a normal good diet with sufficient quantity to satisfy increased caloric expenditure are all that's required.

Pep pills that lessen the feeling of fatigue obviously can be dangerous, in that they lead to exertion far beyond the body's capacity, and also impair judgement.

For top performance in sports, there's no artifical substitute for good coaching, thorough conditioning, many hours of practice and general good health. These cannot be obtained from a bottle or box.

Health & Safety Tips

SPORTS FADS

The athelete -- including the ~~weekend golfer or skier~~ -- who experiments with pep pills, whiffs of oxygen, odd dietary supplements and other such fads in the hope of improving performance is doomed to disappointment and may even be courting bodily harm.

Sports, with their premium on endurance and top performance, are fertile soil for experimentation with a wide varity of what physicians call "ergogenic aids", erogogenic being defined as increasing the capacity of bodily and mental effort, especially by eliminating fatigue symptoms.

The mystique of the readiness of the athlete for competition intrigues the sports enthusiast, says a joint comment of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations and the Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports of the American Medical Association.

None of the fads, fallacies and quackery associated with ergogenic aids is of any more assistance to athletic success than the superstition of never changing underwear during a winning streak, the joint statement says. And some of the practices may even be hazardous if carried to extremes.

For safe and effective performance, there still is no alternative to the fullest utilization of one's natural resources through good personal health practices, top physical conditioning and confidence in one's ability based on careful coaching and good medical supervision.

The four-minute mile barrier was broken ten years ago and running the mile in the 3:50's is now commonplace although it was long considered impossible. Athletes set new records not through gimmicks but through spartan self-discipline and effort focused on peak condition and extreme refinement of skill.

The two sports groups label over reliance on isometric exercises as a fad for which claims have been exaggerated. Isometrics can increase muscular strength but they do not assist range of motion or heart-lung endurance. The notion that extra vitamins are needed by athletes is labeled as a fallacy. The essentials of a normal good diet with sufficient quantity to satisfy increased caloric expenditure are all that's required.

Pep pills that lessen the feeling of fatigue obviously can be dangerous, in that they lead to exertion far beyond the body's capacity, and also impair judgement.

For top performance in sports, there's no artifical substitute for good coaching, thorough conditioning, many hours of practice and general good health. These cannot be obtained from a bottle or box.

Johnson said "it is imperative that the electoral vote of a state be cast for those persons who receive the greatest number of votes for president and vice president —and no one else."

The outlook for action on this proposed constitutional change is clouded by controversy over proposed reforms of the whole electoral college system and by the precedence being given to dealing with vice-presidential vacancies and presidential inability.

Pulse of World Has Slowed In This Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the world seems unusually quiet these days, even dull, one reason is that President John F. Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev were better actors, travelers and talkers than their successors.

With them gone, this has become the era of the technicians in Washington and Moscow. But those two capitals aren't the only places where the sparkle has diminished.

The pulse of the world has slowed down because there is not one truly dramatic figure left, or in sight, to make it skip a beat except for French President Charles de Gaulle, and he's old and he's been playing it cool.

Yet this century has had its share of vivid men, particularly these: Three presidents, Wilson and the two Roosevelts, the Kaiser, Sir Winston Churchill, Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Hitler, Mussolini, Gandhi, Nehru.

President Johnson is at his best operating behind the scenes. There's hardly a peep out of the men who took Khrushchev's place.

Kennedy kept American eyes and expectations fixed on the White House if only because his televised news conferences were always a good show: His wit, his gestures, his facial expressions, his sharp intelligence, and there was no end of excitement, even in his first year with his big boner in backing the disastrous Cuban invasion, his trip to Europe, his summit meeting with Khrushchev, his stand on the Berlin Wall.

Johnson talks a lot and even performs a bit, like pulling the Beagle's ears or grabbing tourists' hands, but he is not at his best in speaking or writing. He reportedly bristles when anyone suggests he's corny.

He holds news conferences everywhere — in his office, on the White House lawn, at his ranch, and Wednesday in his bedroom — but almost all are out of public view because he deliberately avoids news sessions on television.

Johnson has stayed close to home and out of dramatic situations. His tendency has been to soft-pedal, not dramatize, unpleasant events like the riots in Panama last year or the deteriorating war in Viet Nam.

In the end he may prove far superior to Kennedy in accomplishments but it seems sure now he's not in the same class with Kennedy as an actor.

Just a little over 100 days ago Khrushchev was put in limbo by his Kremlin colleagues. His place was taken by a two-man leadership: Premier Kosygin and Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev.

They've been practically speechless ever since. The party explained one reason they moved in was because Khrushchev had become too much of a one-man show. They called it a leadership cult.

Kosygin and Brezhnev—compared with the bouncy, flamboyant, sometimes giddy, merry, somber, cheerful, threatening, coaxing, cajoling, beguiling and always forceful Khrushchev — are as undramatic as a grocer taking inventory.

De Gaulle doesn't say much but he's one man who doesn't have to. More than any modern leader he could make a grand spectacle out of silence. If he just leads a parade, with his nose in the air, he can make it look like an expedition against the gates of time.

Harold Wilson, the British prime minister, is no fiery figure, either. He acts like a technician, too. Chiang Kai-shek is still alive but he was always a dead-pan leader.

Red China's Mao Tze-tung is the one midcentury man who might have been expected to keep thunder rolling with his pronouncements but he has stayed in the background, letting his aides do most of the talking.

Katzenbach is Appointed as Atty. General

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson, who has vowed a "war on poverty," has chosen for his attorney general a man who avows deep concern with the law's impact on the poor.

Nicholas deBelleville Katzenbach, 43, nominated for the post Thursday, may be expected to react vigorously and firmly to violations of civil rights, criminal and antitrust laws.

But associates who know him best say Katzenbach hopes to do more -- to initiate as well as enforce. And the brunt of his initiative, they predict, will be thrown into a campaign to balance the scales of justice on behalf of the nation's poor.

With his predecessor, Robert F. Kennedy, Katzenbach was a guiding force in establishing the office of criminal justice within the department. Its aim is to ensure, as Kennedy put it, that the department is "more than a department of prosecution and is, in fact, a Department of Justice."

A Mexican friend, Don Ramiro, and I sat up late discussing our philosophies of life. Finally I suggested that his wife might be worried about him, or even angry.

"Amigo," he said, "Mexican wives prefer the pleasure of forgiving their husbands for staying out late to thanking them for remaining at home."

THE FAST PACE OF LIFE

You'll find lots of people concerned about the tempo of life today. But most of them simply catch a breath when they can, and try to keep up with the pace.

There is something more important!

The winner trains . . . and plans his race. He may lag behind for a while, but he is confident of hidden resources. When others have burned up their energy and enthusiasm, he forges to the front. As they wilt in the home stretch, he sprints across the finish line.

The Church can help you train . . . and plan! A Christian is concerned with his own spiritual stamina rather than the fast pace of life. He is ready with hidden resources when the moment of challenge comes.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pulse of World Has Slowed In This Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the world seems unusually quiet these days, even dull, one reason is that President John F. Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev were better actors, travelers and talkers than their successors.

With them gone, this has become the era of the technicians in Washington and Moscow. But those two capitals aren't the only places where the sparkle has diminished.

The pulse of the world has slowed down because there is not one truly dramatic figure left, or in sight, to make it skip a beat except for French President Charles de Gaulle, and he's old and he's been playing it cool.

Yet this century has had its share of vivid men, particularly these: Three presidents, Wilson and the two Roosevelts, the Kaiser, Sir Winston Churchill, Lenin, Stalin, Trotsky, Hitler, Mussolini, Gandhi, Nehru.

President Johnson is at his best operating behind the scenes. There's hardly a peep out of the men who took Khrushchev's place.

Kennedy kept American eyes and expectations fixed on the White House if only because his televised news conferences were always a good show: His wit, his gestures, his facial expressions, his sharp intelligence, and there was no end of excitement, even in his first year with his big boner in backing the disastrous Cuban invasion, his trip to Europe, his summit meeting with Khrushchev, his stand on the Berlin Wall.

Johnson talks a lot and even performs a bit, like pulling the Beagle's ears or grabbing tourists' hands, but he is not at his best in speaking or writing. He reportedly bristles when anyone suggests he's corny.

He holds news conferences everywhere — in his office, on the White House lawn, at his ranch, and Wednesday in his bedroom — but almost all are out of public view because he deliberately avoids news sessions on television.

Johnson has stayed close to home and out of dramatic situations. His tendency has been to soft-pedal, not dramatize, unpleasant events like the riots in Panama last year or the deteriorating war in Viet Nam.

In the end he may prove far superior to Kennedy in accomplishments but it seems sure now he's not in the same class with Kennedy as an actor.

Just a little over 100 days ago Khrushchev was put in limbo by his Kremlin colleagues. His place was taken by a two-man leadership: Premier Kosygin and Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev.

They've been practically speechless ever since. The party explained one reason they moved in was becaus Khrushchev had become too much of a one-man show. They called it a leadership cult.

Kosygin and Brezhnev—compared with the bouncy, flamboyant, sometimes giddy, merry, somber, cheerful, threatening, coaxing, cajoling, beguiling and always forceful Khrushchev — are as undramatic as a grocer taking inventory.

De Gaulle doesn't say much but he's one man who doesn't have to. More than any modern leader he could make a grand spectacle out of silence. If he just leads a parade, with his nose in the air, he can make it look like an expedition against the gates of time.

Harold Wilson, the British prime minister, is no fiery figure, either. He acts like a technician, too. Chiang Kai-shek is still alive but he was always a dead-pan leader.

Red China's Mao Tze-tung is the one midcentury man who might have been expected to keep thunder rolling with his pronouncements but he has stayed in the background, letting his aides do most of the talking.

Katzenbach is Appointed as Atty. General

WASHINGTON (AP) -- President Johnson, who has vowed a "war on poverty," has chosen for his attorney general a man who avows deep concern with the law's impact on the poor.

Nicholas deBelleville Katzenbach, 43, nominated for the post Thursday, may be expected to react vigorously and firmly to violations of civil rights, criminal and antitrust laws.

But associates who know him best say Katzenbach hopes to do more -- to initiate as well as enforce. And the brunt of his initiative, they predict, will be thrown into a campaign to balance the scales of justice on behalf of the nation's poor.

With his predecessor, Robert F. Kennedy, Katzenbach was a guiding force in establishing the office of criminal justice within the department. Its aim is to ensure, as Kennedy put it, that the department is "more than a department of prosecution and is, in fact, a Department of Justice."

A Mexican friend, Don Ramiro, and I sat up late discussing our philosophies of life. Finally I suggested that his wife might be worried about him, or even angry.

"Amigo," he said, "Mexican wives prefer the pleasure of forgiving their husbands for staying out late to thanking them for remaining at home."

THE FAST PACE OF LIFE

You'll find lots of people concerned about the tempo of life today. But most of them simply catch a breath when they can, and try to keep up with the pace.

There is something more important!

The winner trains . . . and plans his race. He may lag behind for a while, but he is confident of hidden resources. When others have burned up their energy and enthusiasm, he forges to the front. As they wilt in the home stretch, he sprints across the finish line.

The Church can help you train . . . and plan! A Christian is concerned with his own spiritual stamina rather than the fast pace of life. He is ready with hidden resources when the moment of challenge comes.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
